

---

Subject: eggmac the pacifist

Posted by jrooe34 on Tue, 18 Mar 2003 22:43:59 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Quote:

I do not feel america was justified by using the atomic weapons as they did. They dropped them on civilian targets. I mean it would have been just as effective by dropping it on military bases. Because you see the Japanese attacked military targets. To my knowledge hardly any civilians were harmed

Spoken like a true pacifist.

Let 's play this game.... Do you think, given the opportunity... Japan would have used a nuke on the usa during ww2? Given the chance, do you think Hitler would have used a nuke on the USA in WW2.

Now... Do you think, given the chance, Saddam would release chemical weapons in the USA? Do you think Osama bin Laden would explode a "dirty" bomb in the USA.

It is my opinon that history always repeats itself. However, the consequences for our society is far more greather than say 50 years ago. Again, I go back to my original statement that a gram of anthrax can kill a million people. Pacifist say prove that Saddam is a threat to the USA. It is my opinon he presents a large threat to our safety because we cannot account for the destruction of the stockpiles of chemical agents he possesed/possess. If you think that Saddam, if left in power, would not sell materials of mass destruction to known terrorist, you are only kidding yourself.

I feel America is justified in protecting it's citizenry and intrest. It would be nice to feel the way pacifist feel. However, in the real world, not all people are good nor do all people have good intentions. Some people want to kill my children while I watch. And when they are done spilling my child's blood in the streets they will rape and kill my wife. And when they are done with my wife, they will kill me by putting a bullet in my head. You see pacifist, this is their mentality, it is one that cannot be reasoned with and must be eliminated. If countries tolerate or encourage these types of bad people - they deserve what they get.

And commando you are wrong. The japaneese killed an american in Idaho by a floating a bomb attached to a hot air balloon that landed in a field. A unsuspecting person picked up the bomb and it blew up in her face.

Again, if allowed, people will attack this country. It is amazing pacifist choose to ignore this fact and hope it goes away. What if it is your child who is left to die in the streets? What then???

---