1. voodoo's point is barely valid if you have't even played it.
2. Voodoo, you have completely ignored what was said earlier as a counterpoint for that. At the moment RenAlert cannot sell their game because they are subject to the EULA--because they are a MOD. All the "examples" of seperate games that use borrowed engines have payed for the rights to use the engine, and can produce their own SEPERATE game.

PS. Ack, the quote in your siggy doesnt have an end-quotation mark. :satisfied:
