Im guessing here, but I think I have a good idea.

You see, when people do stupid things often times they get banned. Im guessing here, with no doubt about it, that you did something stupid. Administrators and Moderators do not just ban your account name, they often times ban your IP address. That is why you can't get on with different account names.

If you don't understand what you did, try posting in the correct forum for this.
