occasionally, even our intelligence people get it wrong. example is the documents saying sadaam tried to get uranium from nigeria. we got the documents and passed them on to inspectors immediatley. bush in good faith mentioned them to the public and congress it was later learned they were fakes. it happens especially in these days where everything is happening so fast. this is a case where bush was misinformed but he did not intentionally lie. bush has built his reputation on the fact that he is not like clinton and that he tells the truth. to intentionally lie and take us down the path of clinton would be political suicide and he knows it.
