I came along these sites co-incidentally, I do not read the mregularly. I just found it interesting what was swritten there.

If you really want to know: Out of the US media I like the Z-magazine the most. Many intellectuals write in there and a lot of what they are saying makes much sense and is provided with profound background knowledge.

But my point about the media is not to pick up one source which one can trust, but not to beleive in whatever is said in the media and to question it everytime. Propaganda can so easily affect us, which it does, hence it is in one own's responsibility to try to keep a broad view on things and to try to read between the lines. The world is not black and white. There is no good and evil.

We don't need to get on that level, do we? kthx.
