Actually, that should be one of the easiest characters to do damage with- good range, good damage, rapid refire(the fastest for a medium-long range splash damage weapon), and you don't even need a direct hit. When your aim isn't so good it's nice to know that you can still get some hurt in by shooting the ground near their feet.

Of course, most people would rather miss completely while trying for headshots than do less damage per shot by shooting somewhere easier to hit.

I still think the free flamethrower is the worst. Short range, and outfitted with protection(fire suit) that only works against its own weapon. Completely outclassed by chem sprayer.
