

---

Subject: It just takes time...

Posted by cokemaster on Thu, 15 Apr 2004 00:34:51 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

AlkalineDo you need statistics? Are you just going live in denial that less than 5% of all renegade servers are running RG :rolleyes:

Yes, because you are pulling numbers out of your ass.

Alkaline

I don't feel threatened, I didn't make a dying-plea-of-a-post requesting people keep running RG, and eventually there servers will fill up again :rolleyes:

Certainly seems like you are feeling threatened with all these 'OMG RENGUARD SUCKS' threads.

AlkalineI don't what you say or don't say, but I see your hand in everything renegade and I'm quite frankly sick of it.

That first part doesn't make sense - did you mean "I don't care"? :rolleyes:

alkaline

Let me make 1 thing clear, RG is a good app, RG network is not, I have no intentions of other people having access to my servers, without my permission. Which is why I won't be running RG unless it is de-centralized from the RG network.

Look, no-one is forcing you to use Renguard, it is a clear choice by both the client and the server owner. The RG network is there to enforce bans from things like tampering and the like... an extra layer of protection. It means that users that have been tampering with the client stay banned from the game-servers with Renguard enabled.

How is that not a bad thing?

Alkaline I don't like the RG network having control over my servers, reading my server logs, knowing everything about my ini's and then broadcasting that information to a central base. Not to mention Global messages and what not.

If you don't like it, don't use it. Most of that information can be retrieved one way or the other. I trust the Renguard crew to act responsibly if they have access to that information and besides if they abuse it - you can always remove it. Besides they probably need some of that information to confirm you are in the game AND logged into the renguard network.

Quote:

have to agree with Alk on this one topic I like control over MY server that is why I pay for MY server!!! I, and only I, want to know about what goes on in MY server! I don't want MY game information going to someother jackasses server! So that is MY reason for not running renguard!! If you fix this problem then sure I will be happy to put renguard on, there just aren't enough mods to cover and get rid of all the cheaters! So yea!

You still have CONTROL in your server, You STILL pay for your server. I seriously doubt Renguard is an application which is designed so the Renguard crew can sit there all day WATCHING and CONTROLLING your server - if you haven't NOTICED its an anticheat. If you don't want your previous information used to check what players are in game and compare them to users logged in on Renguard... then don't use it!

edit: Fixed a spelling mistake.

---