If you think Star Trek is supposed to be about action, you're missing the entire point of the series.

Star Trek is meant to excite thought, provoke a mental reaction of what "may" be, what could possibly happen if Earth were to be united and be found by a superior alien race (Vulcans); to help us become more peaceful and advance our culture by integrating it into the universe.

Star Wars is about brainless action.

That pretty much sums them both up. If you're not intellectual, or just enjoy watching stuff blow up because "they breathed his air," Star Wars is your movie series.
