Personally, I think Stargate rocks harder than Star Trek or Star Wars just because (in my humble opinion) it seems more down to earth, in some ways more than others, of course. Star Trek has become the mold for so many other sci-fi series and films that it's more of a cliché now, and isn't as appealing to me as it was when I was way younger. Star Wars would be my choice of the two though, just because of it's originality.

Overall, I say Stargate wins .
