I dont want to start a holy war here ok! Shut up about ur god/no god opinions! Let people do what they do and leave them alone! Also about the mayan calender's 2012 thing many people think that 2012 will bring an age of global prosperity or some kind of enlightenment. Also i belive that life is something that we should look as a gift, life is really not nessessary in this universe. We should learn to care about one an other not just about ur self. I belive that we should learn about this posible event in 2012. I want humanity to continue into the future. I dont want this generation to be known as the one that let the end come with out fighting. If we were put on this earth for anything we should atleast try to achive our purpose which might come in the neer future or the far future.
