Yes...to a certain extent.

NastydeadPagans are stupid and think the universe was created from a big exploding rock. Well.....what created the big ass rock? How can a big ass rock of elements distribute planets, moons, and suns across infinity????

Not a big rock, but all matter that compressed itself to a supposed limit imposed by string theory, at which point everything violently erupted outward. Then, as everything was shooting away from each other, gravity started to make clumps, or galaxies. And here we are.

What created the "rock"? Why, perhaps it has existed for all eternity. I doubt the human mind can understand the concept. Well, what created god? Or has god always been there? Or why does God, although being all-powerful, so on and so forth, have human limitations like design and create, and yet gets to be around forever, something humans can't understand? So, god gets to be some human things and some non-understood things.

Just a thought.
