Just wondering here - what happens when renegade online support is cut off, the whole multiplayer and everything, what then? Its probably not gonna be very far away, since its eatin up ea's money and thay aint gettin it back in. Surely theres a way to get the rights or just plain decompile the source to change servers, and the larger sites and clans could pitch in to help host the main server(s) or what? are we left to find another game? some food for thought here...
