You can vote for your cat if you want too, after all, in the official election there is a blank line for you to right a name down a vote for, so just jote your cats name down on that blank and selecte the vote on that, since your not going to vote bush and you appear to think Kerry isn't the wiser of the 2 either.

I would be funny as h3ll if a cat did get voted to office by some random and completely unorthodox event. It will never happen, but at least it could make a funny Comidy Central gag. And the winner of the pers. election, Gizbotvas Cat!

the crowd cheers

Bush and Kerry look at each other in dismay and say "WHAT IN THE H3LL?!"
