You know damn well that Kerry wouldn't have said "we may yet find [WMD]" if the possibility were as unlikely as you finding them in your fridge.

"Kerry knows what everyone with a memory knows: which is that Saddam had WMD and the world agreed he had them. Perhaps they were destroyed, perhaps hidden, perhaps trucked to Syria, but he had them. Thank you, Mr. Kerry, for your only contribution to the public's understanding of the war to date."
