Seems you have the potential to be a graff artist if you choose to.

About the Stopping PS buisness.. I just feel like my skills are slipping and so i want to stop before my works begins to look too dodgy.

Like you take a look at my latest work:

You can see that looking at my previous work, i am slipping.

Im still open to helping people learn PS more in depth and help them with anything art/media related.

I believe art is a projection of ourselves in different moods and if you let it go to waste then whats the point waking up in the mornings?

Think about it.. If you have a skill thats meant to be shown why let it go to waste?
