

---

Subject: 30 hornets vs 30,000 bees

Posted by DBB on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 15:06:18 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

My co-workers at my work run a honey bee buisness. We literally have thousands upon thousands of bee's in the back of the work. Id hate to see one set of hornets (which we also have a lot of around the building) take them all out. Then bee's can be expensive to buy.

I remember maybe when I was about 12 or so my father and I attacked a thing of hornets with multiple bottle of poison. Boy, talk about scary stuff. I can still remember my father spraying one clump of them, then they all (like about 100) come flying at him and him just doing commando rolls all the way into the pool. Ahh, hornets dont get along too well with water by the way. Lets just say we both learned our lesson that day. SCREW POISON USE A HIGH POWER HOSED then step on them all. Good times.

---