Hey. Yeah, good times. Tell me what the weather's like when you reach the core of human indecency.

You continued to argue with a man even though it was possible that each argument could've been the last form of human contact he experienced? Incredible.

I'm not going to pretend to know the severity of the illness or the situation, but I'd like to think that I could tell the difference between civilized and uncivilized behavior - and that...is just not civilized.
