It's a typical human response to react to the negative more than the positive. People define themselves by their misery. People LOVE to compare who has it worse than the other guy. I bet 75-80% of you right now would say "Oh, my childhood was rough!" Everyone is doing better than they were 4 years ago, but they're worried that their neighbor isn't. Then you have the left-wing media doing all they can to make us think we're in this horrible miserable time. It's more fun to hate... especially when there's the trend to be "different". Who wants to feel like a conformist and agree with whoever is in office?
