I agree that you shouldn't say "omg it works 100% it's impossible to bypass"... but you shouldn't go around saying that it sucks because "maybe someone could pass it"... If you tell us about an exploit we fix it. Every single time.

Most of these fixes are unseen by you because most of the security of the app is on the master servers. The most recent exploit we heard about was quickly traced to a bug in the master server code. It was fixed, the network was upgraded, problem solved.
