Although I haven't had any encounters with fire ants, I do however have another ant that pisses me off.

Flying carpenter ants. I live in a 30+ year-old house, it's foundations made of wood and most of the ceiling as well. A couple of months ago we spotted and about half an inch long crawling out of a crack. We thought spray would kill them, didn't work. We tried plugging the hole, they just made a new one. It seems the only thing we can do is put up a bug zapper, INSIDE OUR OWN HOME, just to make sure they don't spread into the rooms and kitchen.

On a plus side, I get great satisfaction from seeing the fuckers roast and watching the electricity evaporate all their body fluids causing them to pop. :twisted:
