spoonyratmahkral have NEVER banned people to steal their tanks (except teammates, of course, but the tanks were actually mine in the first place, which is why the people got banned), so I don't know what the hell you're talking about here.

I'm sure there was a perfectly valid reason you banned two enemy players. And I'm sure it was a complete coincidence that they both happened to be in your base with flame tanks. And I'm sure the fact that yourself and ZoogLer rushed the Nod base immediately after was equally coincidental :rolleyes:

You're either lying or your memory fails you

I repeat, spoony, this NEVER happened.

As I said earlier, I do NOT ban people to steal their tanks. Occasionally I do ban someone who just happens to be in my base in a tank. When that happens, though, I don't take the tank; I destroy it. I have no desire to win a game by kicking enemies and taking their vehicles.

That's how I know your story isn't true. Even if there were flame tanks in my base and I banned the drivers, I would not have used the flame tanks. That's just not my style.

So like I said before, this story is simply a lie. It's either completely made up, or you've got me confused with someone else. Maybe you were really playing on some other server (like when you thought you were on my server after you'd been banned) and got confused about people's names (like when you thought "N00b1us" was "N00b1rus").

Word of advice, spoony: you shouldn't throw accusations around like this unless you can actually back them up. The more stories you make up, the less likely it is that people will believe ANYTHING you say in the future...
