How many people out there who don't go on the forums will know about Renguard? Maybe we could slip some kind of announcement into that popup that comes up each time we start (you know, the one that lets us know that it's been over a year since the server code was updated- Jan 2003), and put the links to Renegadeforums.com (and Renguard.com)?

And by slip, I mean talk to any EA employees who still would care enough and have the ability to make a change.

I don't know if it's possible or not, or if it would be prudent to advertise Renguard there (although EA pretends to be anticheater enough, they might do it), but it's worth a shot, isn't it?
