
Subject: The AMT Sucks.

Posted by Javaxcx on Fri, 02 Jul 2004 14:49:44 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The only problem with that is the budget and the demands. Insurance will bitch for more and more money to feed into their pockets. They do it here. I mean, just for example, I was looking at a 1984 Porsche 972 (I think it was) for $8800. The insurance would've cost me more than the car. And that was the absolute lowest I could get. If that were the case, I'd rather not have auto insurance simply because any repairs/injuries would probably cost me less than my annual insurance tab. Demands would get out of control, people would whine, and congress would just want to stop putting up with it.

It's sad really that all those rich idiots can't ever seem to get enough.
