
Subject: Should we fix jumping on barracks on Canyon?
Posted by Aircraftkiller on Fri, 02 Jul 2004 18:02:21 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Quote:That is respect. Just because you don't think so doesn't make it so. I can almost guarantee you that everyone with a shroud of openmindedness to logic would agree.

I'm open minded, just not to mind games or attempts at swaying my opinion to something I don't care to think about.

Quote:I would guess you were never IN the Military then were you? You have to respect the authority of officers, as well as the integrity of those around you. You might not like the people, but you better be sure to respect them otherwise you'll find yourself face first in the dirt at 3am. Remember, whenever you say "sir" you're respecting them. You choose to say it, therefore it is respect. Hollow, yes, but still respect.

Did I ever say I was? :rolleyes:
