If your experiencing problems with the RenGuard 1.01 installer and the RenGuard 1.01 itself while trying to launch the game then you should try the following:

- Uninstall RenGuard 1.01 via control panel> add remove software
- Install RenGuard 1.0
- Run Renegade as usual and RenGuard should popup, wait for it to autoupdate itself to version 1.01, after this there SHOULD be no problems.

This 'workaround' worked for quite a few people really. So please give this a try.

And then it just sits there and does nothing...

And all this is after Norton gives me some crap about C:\westwood\renegade\update.exe is some virus... *sigh*

Well, it seems like the primary mirror file is defective... I used the second mirror (download2.renguard.com) and the autoupdate went perfectly.

The installer for 1.01 on download.renguard.com was the OLD 1.01 that we knew wasn't working for like 50% of people. I have updated the installer on the website.

Zunie.

Followed your instructions to no avail. The auto updates works fine, however some crash out error. Didn't crimson say something about the incorrect installer being the one connected to the server?

Also here is an interesting bug

When I tried to unistall rengauard (1.01) it deleted my game.exe not going to tragain as I don't feel like reinstalling maybe some1 else can confirm.

@the person who got the virus warning, you are getting that because the program is accessing the net, if you have your settings on too high then it detects it as virus like activity. The only other way is if you downloaded a version not from WWW,RENGUARD.COM even if your comp has a virus the file couldn't be infecte instantly upon getting to your computer

Out for the night, I need my beauty sleep lol

Check to see if the Accept Window/button is the background application, is another window in front of it.?

You'd want a rule to permit this application, just as you would to permit norton update

BTW, who busted out the frames? resize you pic, or crop it...
