The key to the diary is on the skeleton... the way to get the key is similar to how you found a key in the Crimson room.

So do we just keep clicking the skeleton, or rug or something till the key falls out, like it did in the curtains in the Crimson room (or is that soemthing else I am thinking of)? Also where do I click to lift up the trash can, I lifted it before, but can't lift it again . . .

The beer -- he likes it cold.

The meat means nothing really except that there's a paper under there.

The diary also helps you figure out the whole point of what you're doing to get out, and tells you the combination to the lock that you might not have found yet.

The guy who killed himself is looking for someone to pray for him (per the diary). In order to leave, he needs a vessel to transport his soul out of that room. By reading his diary, you know what is important to him. Then, you can set him free.

Put the chinese characters on the green peice of paper. The paper with the hair and the paper in the medicine bottle should help you with that.

The number isn't as easy to find as the Crimson Room. It has to do with dates.

This isn't easy to figure out, but you should burn the hair with the lighter to get further with that.

After you burn the hair, you should notice something about the paper that the hair was on. That's your clue as to what to do with the "dice thing".

The date is month, then day.

2. click on it in your inventory, click about atem and click on the enlarged case. it opens. click on the cd, and click on the middle of the case

3. use the lighter and click on the hair multiple times

Face the blue door closest to the book shelf (The Crimson Room door) and look up. You should find one of the chinese characters there.

Spreegem:

Make sure the beer is chilled. Let it sit in the mini-fridge for a little bit. Also remove the picture as it's not necessary.
