I have this neat webserver with gobs of bandwidth to spare, so... I am thinking of offering another free service...

From the site that brought you free image hosting, I would like to offer free forum hosting. I'll set up a clean install of phpBB or IPB for you and give you the admin login so you can run it any way you like.

In order to help pay for this, each month you'll receive a suggested donation amount based on the amount of traffic your site received. Whether you donate that amount or not (or more) will be up to you and your service won't change whether you pay or not. All forums will have a small link to n00bstories.com at the very bottom... which is a small price to pay considering most free forums barrage your visitors with popup ads and/or banner ads at the top.

You would also get your choice of subdomain -- either:

yoursite.n00bforums.com

Please note I haven't set any of this up yet, so it's not set in stone... and I don't know when I'll be completely ready to take "customers"... but keep it in mind and please use this thread to let me know if you're interested.

Maybe you could give it to premium accounts first, since we haven't had anything new for a while
