How do I set how many players the FDS server will hold, and the game options? It just seems to be an installer then an application that detects your bandwidth and jumps straight to the game.

And it keeps logging into the european server instead of US.

I have another problem

the MS DOS program it boots up in will only allow you to scroll to a certain level. Beyond that, you can't type anything in or see anything else beyond it. It all saves to a log file, but that's useless if you can't control the game.

Is there any way of making the scroll unlimited?

If you run a bot with a GUI like BR .Net you can scroll forever.

The Log file is more than usefull when running a bot, that is how the bot operates. I dont have problems scrolling in the FDS either.

That's how much it'll let me scroll, no further and when it reaches the end I can't type anything in either. It could be just a windows ME restriction (I believe it wasn't tested on that), hell I dunno.

I'll try brenbot, thanks

BRenBot doesn't have a GUI, it might not help much.

Or use BRenBot and echo to an IRC channel... then you can take advantage of all the power of mIRC and IRC so anyone around the world can moderate.

You might be on the right track with Win ME being the problem.
