
Subject: Computer problem

Posted by c0nFuZ0r on Wed, 02 Jun 2004 02:00:58 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I recently installed MSN messenger and I'm having problems with the message box being too far to the left of the screen. I can't reach the message box when people message me or when I try to message them. I tried moving my mouse toward it but I couldn't grab it, but I did pull an empty folder from way over to the left on my desktop. I would like to know how I can make the screen smaller somehow?

My screen resolution is at 1024 by 768 pixels right now.

Can someone please help.. this is getting frustrating.

Subject: Computer problem

Posted by gibberish on Wed, 02 Jun 2004 05:08:18 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

- Right click on the task bar.
 - Tile Windows Vertically.
-

Subject: Computer problem

Posted by c0nFuZ0r on Wed, 02 Jun 2004 15:35:59 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hmm, that didn't work either. But I did get it to work finally. I just sat here for about 5 minutes trying to grab the message window and I got it and dragged it back to where I could see it. It works the right way now.
