I don't think a lot of people have these so here you go. They include grassy under, grassy walls, grassy hourglass, iced hourglass and snowy islands.

Side effects to snowy islands and iced hourglass are iced complex, volcano, and field. They aren't actually new textures, just different ones renamed to work on these levels. planetshaun done these so he gets the credit and his readmes are in the zip anyway. The link on his side doesn't seem to work anymore

Why would he get credit for making the official levels look more like ass than they already do? Nevermind the fact that all he did was rename existing texture maps to another name, and claim credit for it all.

It doesn't even change the material sounds.

I don't understand. How can ice form with a lava flow next to it? Or how can palm trees even exist in those conditions. Field would look good if those trees were bare.

I know some of it doesn't make sense, and there are no surface detection edits, but that isn't up to my answering . I think they look better than the normal textures, but hey.

Also, I'm sure I remember you (jonathan) renaming textures for the secondary engineer to make them work for the default engineer and claiming credit for it a while back.

Javaxcxl don't understand. How can ice form with a lava flow next to it? Or how can palm trees even exist in those conditions.

It's quite simple really...the map has been moved from Earth to the Icy Wastes of Cania.
