Armed with a two inch cannon, the Gunboat is the primary brown-water (shallow water) unit in the Allied naval fleet. Essentially a patrol boat, its missions include ASW (Anti-Submarine Warfare) to which it is equipped with launchable Depth Charges, and anti-tank and structure roles. It is the fastest vehicle on the sea, reaching speeds up to 35 MPH.

Priced at $500, it does decent damage to armor, buildings, and very little to soldiers. It only launches one Depth Charge at a time, from the main cannon, due to W3D limitations... Which ironically make it play just like Red Alert.

It can take three Submarine torpedoes before going under. Its destruction animation will show it sinking for about 50 meters before it blows up underwater. It holds one person.

Model was done by Sir Phoenixx. Set of three textures was done by myself.

Only 500 dollars... are naval units going to be generally inexpensive to encourage battle on the open seas? Or will this patrol boat just be generally fairly weak against anything on land?

yeah, the gunboat was pretty weak in that, which justifies it's £500 cost.
Just wait until you see the cruiser

Nice model and textures too, can't wait until the next RenAlert release

The Allied Cruiser is not going to be used in multiplayer, unless it's an Assault map.

I think it will definitely make an appearance in Single Player, though.

It looks ok, but it could do with a bit more detail like deck lines and such, also if that allied logo is painted it would of rusted somewhat so perhaps rust it down a bit.

SirphoenixxRENALERTforumsThe Destroyer was modeled before, but it will be redone (I'm currently modeling it.), I don't think the naval transport was ever modeled (for the game).

It took around 3-4 days, about 1-2 hours a day to finish the model.

Wait so the one on the renalert forums is an older model and this is the newer model or what?

Are you that amazingly stupid or what? Notice how "The Destroyer" is highlighted above? Notice how I never mentioned the gunboat in your above quote? Is it just me, or did I make it completely clear that I was talking about how I'm redoing the Destroyer, and not the gunboat?

Quote:I asked on the renalert forums how far he was into and he gave me that response leading me to believe there was going to be another Gunboat model. Right?

Everything above "It took around 3-4 days...." had nothing to do with you, I was talking to those that kept saying how the destroyer is already done and the naval transport was done before.

What does your apparent inability to read have to do with "getting a life", or how I think of myself? Why don't you stop pulling random crap out of nowhere.

NeoXSir Phoenixx you have changed...you used to be cool a nice guy. But after you have been working with a certain someone you have now become an asshole.

Oh yeah, I'm an asshole because I got into a single argument with someone once because apparently "The Destroyer is being remade." means the same as "The Gunboat will be remade again."

Plus, I've been on Renegade Alert with Aircraftkiller nearly the entire time I've been in the community, this simple fact disproves "you've changed because of working with a certain someone".

Quote:I post this here why? because when ever I post in your other forums you either delete my post or simple ignore it. What? I've NEVER deleted any of your posts. There's no way that last part can possibly be true, most of the replies to the mod updates consist of constructive criticism, like "The [turret/barrel/text/etc.] looks [wrong/too large/too small/etc.]", and they're not deleted.
