If ur 24 why dont u have a girlfriend?

Because I'm gay? Because I've had a 10 year depression? Because I don't need one? Because I'm happy enough as my own person? Because I'm a woman? Two of them are lies, you pick them because I don't care what you think of me. You are just a little scrotum who doesn't justify the effort used by your mum and the customer that shacked her up snipbravoWhy dont u go out with friends?

Ironically I answer this after a good drinking session with said non-existent friends. Renegade isn't the be all and end all to me, unlike some stupid gamekid like yourself snipbravoWHY DONT U PAINTBALL?

Because there's nowhere around here to do so, plus why fire paint at people when I have an actual lethal weapon sat about a yard away from me right now?

Resume? Learn English

Come back to me when your're old enough to work. I've had more jobs than your mum's had clients.

So you're admitting to being 11 when you started by saying your age doesn't matter? Fuck off you waste of space. It's people like you who prove our stereotype of stupid americans right. If you paintball then shoot yourself in the head and do the world some good.

While we're on the subject, shall I tell the moderators about your personal offensives or should I just let them find this on their own? You have no idea who I am, and you started this whole thing. Don't get personal, I might just live across the road from you.

Are you high, or are you naturally this stupid?

I think this small essay will enlighten you...

Robert 'redpaw' JungWelcome to the Internet.

No one here likes you.

We're going to offend, insult, abuse, and belittle the living hell out of you. And when you rail against us with "FUCK YOU YOU GEEK WIMP SKATER GOTH LOSER PUNK FAG BITCH!1!!", we smile to ourselves. We laugh at you because you don't get it. Then we turn up the heat, hoping to draw more entertainment from your irrational fuming.

We will judge you, and we will find you unworthy. It is a trial by fire, and we won't even think about turning down the flames until you finally understand.

Some of you are smart enough to realize that, when you go online, it's like entering a foreign country ... and you know better than to ignorantly fuck with the locals. You take the time to listen and think before speaking. You learn, and by learning are gladly welcomed.

For some of you, it takes a while, then one day it all dawns on you - you get it, and are welcomed into the fold.

Some of you give up, and we breathe a sigh of relief - we didn't want you here anyway. And some of you just never get it. The offensively clueless have a special place in our hearts - as objects of ridicule. We don't like you, but we do love you.

You will get mad. You will tell us to go to hell, and call us "nerds" and "geeks". Don't bother ... we already know exactly what we are. And, much like the way hardcore rap has co-opted the word "nigger", turning an insult around on itself to become a semiserious badge of honor, so have we done.

"How dare you! I used to beat the crap out of punks like you in high school/college!" You may have owned the playing field because you were an athlete. You may have owned the student council because you were more popular. You may have owned the hallways and sidewalks because you were big and intimidating. Well, welcome to our world.

Things like athleticism, popularity, and physical prowess mean nothing here. We place no value on them ... or what car you drive, the size of your bank account, what you do for a living or where you went to school.

Allow us to introduce you to the concept of a "meritocracy" - the closest thing to a form of self-government we have. In The United Meritocratic nation-states of the Internet, those who can do, rule. Those who wish to rule, learn. Everyone else watches from the stands.

You may possess everything in the off-line world. We don't care. You come to the Internet penniless, lacking the only thing of real value here: knowledge.

"Who cares? The Internet isn't real anyway!" This attitude is universally unacceptable. The Internet is real. Real people live behind those handles and screen names. Real machines allow it to exist. It's real enough to change government policy, real enough to feed the world's hungry, and even, for some of us, real enough to earn us a paycheck. Using your own definition, how "real" is your job? Your stock portfolio? Your political party? What is the meaning of "real", anyway?

Do I sound arrogant? Sure ... to you. Because you probably don't get it yet.

If you insist on staying, then, at the very least, follow this advice:

- 1) No one, ESPECIALLY YOU, will make any law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.
- 2) Use your brain before ever putting fingers to keys.
- 3) Do you want a picture of you getting anally raped by Bill Clinton while you're performing oral sex on a cow saved to hundreds of thousands of people's hard drives? No? Then don't put your fucking picture on the Internet. We can, will, and probably already HAVE altered it in awful ways. Expect it to show up on an equally offensive website.
- 4) Realize that you are never, EVER going to get that, or any other, offensive web page taken down. Those of us who run those sites LIVE to piss off people like you. Those of us who don't run those sites sometimes visit them just to read the hate mail from fools like you.
- 5) Oh, you say you're going to a lawyer? Be prepared for us to giggle with girlish delight, and for your lawyer to laugh in your face after he explains current copyright and parody law.
- 6) The Web is not the Internet. Stop referring to it that way.
- 7) We have already received the e-mail you are about to forward to us. Shut up.
8. Don't reply to spam. You are not going to be "unsubscribed".
- 9) Don't ever use the term "cyberspace" (only William Gibson gets to say that, and even he hasn't really used it for two or three books now). Likewise, you prove yourself a marketing-hype victim if you ever use the term "surfing".
- 10) With one or two notable exceptions, chat rooms will not get you laid.
- 11) It's a hoax, not a virus warning.
- 12) The internet is made up of thousands of computers, all connected but owned by different people. Learn how to use your computer before attempting to connect it to someone else's.
- 13) The first person who offers to help you is really just trying to fuck with you for entertainment. So is the second. And the third. And me.
- 14) Never insult someone who's been active in any group longer than you have. You may as well paint a damn target on your back.
- 15) Never get comfortable and arrogant behind your supposed mask of anonymity. Don't be surprised when your name, address, and home phone number get thrown back in your smug face.

Hell, some of us will snail-mail you a printed satellite photograph of your house to drive the point home. Realize that you are powerless if this happens ... it's all public information, and information is our stock and trade.

16) No one thinks you are as cool as you think you are.

17) You aren't going to win any argument that you start.

18. If you're on AOL, don't worry about anything I've said here. You're already a fucking laughing stock, and there's no hope for you.

19) If you can't take a joke, immediately sell your computer to someone who can. RIGHT NOW.

Pissed off? It's the TRUTH, not these words, that hurts your feelings. Don't ever even pretend like I've gone & hurt them.

We don't like you. We don't want you here. We never will. Save us all the trouble and go away.

Can I take you up on that?

My weapon of choice would be the LeEnfield no.5 .303, converted to a .22. Equipped with a knife sight (so no scope). The target would be approx. 20 meters away, target area is about 3 inches across, meaning the bullseye is approx. the width of the bullet. Firing from the prone position.

90% accuracy, you?

So you go hunting and paintballing.. too bad you didnt make time for an education.

Well, that's fairly unlikely. I've got roughly 90% give or take, at the local gun club, and an equal accuracy at work. What do you have? A tiny ego and a make believe .357. Do you even know what a C7A1 is? Don't look it up.

Take me up on what? The kind of challenge you made to the people of this forum that you have yet to accept? Quite frankly, you don't look like the kind of person who takes people up on anything.

I would go as far as to say you probably aren't in high school either. I mean, you said you graduated 'sniper school' with flying colours, and obviously, that was a lie.

Anyway, I doubt anyone thinks a bigot is cool anyway.

Using similar weapons, I doubt you'd achive anything close to that.

I love this though... sports and talking make you popular (hey wow! you're popular if you talk!). How pathetic. "I'm going to bypass a decent eduaction, so that someone I won't know in 10 years will like me now!"

As for the getting a job thing, with your level of education, I highly doubt even you would be able to get one. I can only imagine the grammar your Resume would contain, let alone it's cover letter.

You may be in the high school but are you actually receiving an education? By the lack of grammar and spelling, I assume you're just masturbating your time away. Fuck wit! Oh and by the way, sports doesnt make you any more valuable than the rest of us, it just makes you sound more like a pretencious dick. And I take personal offence to the british comment. God, must I repeat this to the same retard AGAIN?

Robert 'redpaw' Jung>Welcome to the Internet.

No one here likes you.

We're going to offend, insult, abuse, and belittle the living hell out of you. And when you rail against us with "FUCK YOU YOU GEEK WIMP SKATER GOTH LOSER PUNK FAG BITCH!1!!", we smile to ourselves. We laugh at you because you don't get it. Then we turn up the heat, hoping to draw more entertainment from your irrational fuming.

We will judge you, and we will find you unworthy. It is a trial by fire, and we won't even think about turning down the flames until you finally understand.

Some of you are smart enough to realize that, when you go online, it's like entering a foreign country ... and you know better than to ignorantly fuck with the locals. You take the time to listen and think before speaking. You learn, and by learning are gladly welcomed.

For some of you, it takes a while, then one day it all dawns on you - you get it, and are welcomed into the fold.

Some of you give up, and we breathe a sigh of relief - we didn't want you here anyway. And some of you just never get it. The offensively clueless have a special place in our hearts - as objects of ridicule. We don't like you, but we do love you.

You will get mad. You will tell us to go to hell, and call us "nerds" and "geeks". Don't bother ... we already know exactly what we are. And, much like the way hardcore rap has co-opted the word "mean mean black person", turning an insult around on itself to become a semiserious badge of honor, so have we done.

"How dare you! I used to beat the crap out of punks like you in high school/college!" You may have owned the playing field because you were an athlete. You may have owned the student council because you were more popular. You may have owned the hallways and sidewalks because you were big and intimidating. Well, welcome to our world.

Things like athleticism, popularity, and physical prowess mean nothing here. We place no value on them ... or what car you drive, the size of your bank account, what you do for a living or where you went to school.

Allow us to introduce you to the concept of a "meritocracy" - the closest thing to a form of self-government we have. In The United Meritocratic nation-states of the Internet, those who can do, rule. Those who wish to rule, learn. Everyone else watches from the stands.

You may possess everything in the off-line world. We don't care. You come to the Internet penniless, lacking the only thing of real value here: knowledge.

"Who cares? The Internet isn't real anyway!" This attitude is universally unacceptable. The Internet is real. Real people live behind those handles and screen names. Real machines allow it to exist. It's real enough to change government policy, real enough to feed the world's hungry, and even, for some of us, real enough to earn us a paycheck. Using your own definition, how "real" is your job? Your stock portfolio? Your political party? What is the meaning of "real", anyway?

Do I sound arrogant? Sure ... to you. Because you probably don't get it yet.

If you insist on staying, then, at the very least, follow this advice:

- 1) No one, ESPECIALLY YOU, will make any law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.
- 2) Use your brain before ever putting fingers to keys.
- 3) Do you want a picture of you getting anally raped by Bill Clinton while you're performing oral sex on a cow saved to hundreds of thousands of people's hard drives? No? Then don't put your fucking picture on the Internet. We can, will, and probably already HAVE altered it in awful ways. Expect it to show up on an equally offensive website.
- 4) Realize that you are never, EVER going to get that, or any other, offensive web page taken down. Those of us who run those sites LIVE to piss off people like you. Those of us who don't run those sites sometimes visit them just to read the hateemail from fools like you.
- 5) Oh, you say you're going to a lawyer? Be prepared for us to giggle with girlish delight, and for your lawyer to laugh in your face after he explains current copyright and parody law.
- 6) The Web is not the Internet. Stop referring to it that way.
- 7) We have already received the e-mail you are about to forward to us. Shut up.
8. Don't reply to spam. You are not going to be "unsubscribed".
- 9) Don't ever use the term "cyberspace" (only William Gibson gets to say that, and even he hasn't really used it for two or three books now). Likewise, you prove yourself a marketing-hype victim if you ever use the term "surfing".
- 10) With one or two notable exceptions, chat rooms will not get you laid.
- 11) It's a hoax, not a virus warning.
- 12) The internet is made up of thousands of computers, all connected but owned by different people. Learn how to use your computer before attempting to connect it to someone else's.

13) The first person who offers to help you is really just trying to fuck with you for entertainment. So is the second. And the third. And me.

14) Never insult someone who's been active in any group longer than you have. You may as well paint a damn target on your back.

15) Never get comfortable and arrogant behind your supposed mask of anonymity. Don't be surprised when your name, address, and home phone number get thrown back in your smug face. Hell, some of us will snail-mail you a printed satellite photograph of your house to drive the point home. Realize that you are powerless if this happens ... it's all public information, and information is our stock and trade.

16) No one thinks you are as cool as you think you are.

17) You aren't going to win any argument that you start.

18. If you're on AOL, don't worry about anything I've said here. You're already a fucking laughing stock, and there's no hope for you.

19) If you can't take a joke, immediately sell your computer to someone who can. RIGHT NOW.

Pissed off? It's the TRUTH, not these words, that hurts your feelings. Don't ever even pretend like I've gone & hurt them.

We don't like you. We don't want you here. We never will. Save us all the trouble and go away.

Don't the people here just LOVE how he dodges challanges?

2 people at least have challanged him to a game of Renegade at HIS request, then he dodges.

He challanges peoples IQ, so I take him up on that, and yet he dodges again.

And then he keeps telling us how he doesn't care what people think of him, yet he keeps responding as if he did!

It's the normal for 9 year olds. What else do you expect to come from a kid that's younger than most of my cousins?

tarsonis9When he referred to a 24 year old yelling at an 11 year old in a previous post, I believe he was referring to himself.

(The 11 year old, for the slow ones.)

Hey snipe, are your bizarre social tendancies a product of your misconjunctive pituitary gland?

(First person to tell me where this is from gets a prize)

Hold on a mo, you saying I'm 11? I am actually 24..

And there's some 11 year old with all this weaponry? I know handguns are illegal in London, oop, I mean Britain (yes there is some England outside of that shithole affectionately known as our capital, or to some, our entire country) but I'm sure there must be some concern raised about a kid owning firearms too.

I'm sorry if I pissed people off but I do understand that no-one here knows each other, and when accusations get slung they need some apparent basis.

Believe me or not, I really couldn't care, but this is why I got so offended.

The depression I have has lasted on and off for 10 years now. As a consequence I have no childhood that I can remember and as far as I know I could have been made as a 14 year old robot (like in the film "AI")

The lethal weapon is real, and the reason I have it is to remind me what I did once. Several pussy-assed suicide attempts failed, so I got a 9-bore shotgun (dodgy people in Liverpool, go look on a map.. it's a real place!) and shot myself in the lower stomach with it.

Needless to say I didn't die, but I am now wheelchair bound. My friends are few and far between as I can't get out much. I can't socialise because to be blunt I don't know how to. Now I can take a joke as much as the next guy and I've had my fair share of moron thrown at me, but when I get someone just hurling random and unnecessary insults at me for no real reason (correct me if I'm wrong) I do get one hell of an offended mood on me. The whole "I'll report you" was a knee-jerk reaction for which I won't apologise as I still feel that way.

Like I said before, believe me or not, or you could just post me a picture of my house... anything important that wants saying to me, then pm me.

It's actually quite funny as I'm the only apparent Brit here as far as I know, I told him Liverpool isn't far from me yet London is. Why can't he go on multimap or something and actually look about the size and layout of a country before he slags it off? I mean seriously there must be someone in the United States that can understand that London isn't the country, surely there must be one?

Incidentally, the cultural and economic differences between the north and the south have almost split this place in 2. It is like a different country down there, only they speak more english..
