Complaints about the poll are unneeded and unwanted. The decision is final. I am confident they will both lead this forum to greatness.

Dante has started modding Renegade again? Or maybe he's just an observer...

Subject: Biased? No...

So, I'm curious as to how I managed to lose to Dante, who only had 7 votes. I mean, it's not like ever expected to win anyway, I figured you'd pull something like this -- I'm interested to see the justification in taking at least 16 votes away from me...

Besides, Dante is a fine moderator for the job. Hell, I was going to give the position to him anyway if I won because I didn't actually want it...But this is rather hypocritical of you, to accuse me of rigging the voting and then just deny me the second place position because you (and of course ACK) dislike me. Makes a ton of sense...

Read Blazer's post. He chose Dante, and I chose Muffins. It's obvious that the bulk of your votes were acquired from your own forum-goers who have little or nothing to do with these forums, and in fact lied about their past participation here. But if they truly would visit here more if it's less of a flame factory, then they will visit with Muffins and Dante leading. However, I believe most of them are players, not modders, and couldn't care less.

I realize that you are now going to run back to BC and tell everyone that I'm a liar and a dictator, etc... and that you proved your point, but the fact of the matter is that you can't argue with who I did pick for the positions and they will do a great job.

Enough votes were from legitimate people (who actually cared) to put me in second place, but of course that doesn't matter. I agree that they will most likely do a good job, but yes, your actions were out of place and completely biased and unfair. You can't argue with that. Suddenly ending a "democratic" poll and choosing the winners on your own isn't very democratic in itself...But then again I suppose I shouldn't have expected fairness here. That's probably why most of the people hadn't registered here, because they've seen other times where you've pulled things like this. And I could always get into the whole Republican thing with altering elections...but that would be rather fruitless.

This is exactly why he couldn't possibly win. I can be Democratic to an extent, but when someone has no respect for me, I can't give them higher access here. No way, no how.

I lost the respect I had for you when you decided to end the vote and just pick who you liked...

And I don't really mind, but I could have sworn they were called private messages for a reason..
:rolleyes:

Besides, Scrumfy. You're biased against me. So you wouldn't make a very good moderator.

Thanks for the nominations and the votes.

For everyone that doesn't think I am here looking at the forums, I read them everyday, and check for new topics etc... but I have a wierd cookie issue with the site and the double domains, and it keeps me logged out most of the time, I only login to post, which is very rare.

Thanks again!

No ack probably wasn't chosen because he is an asshole actually, you on the other hand are a smartass which would have been just as bad. STFU you didn't win, get over it.

Congrats to both of the winners, you'll do a fine job
