Still not finished...

I changed some stuff :

<http://mods.moddb.com/images/mods/gallery/15970img.jpg>

OLD SKIN... -> ugly

New skin done, it waits some ads from nightcrawler for reflects.

And Permagrin must edit the front of the model and the size of some parts that are bad sized.

The new one look's a lot better. Good you kept the dirt on the tires. I really like that. Good Job.

I personally preferred the old version, it looked a lot more technical and if you look, had more detail in it.

If the window texture is in the uvmap, inner bevel it and make it a more grey.

The red on the tail also is a bit pinkish, make it more red and darken it.

There is still very little detail on the vehicle. It looks like a bunch of concrete and metal welded together with no seams or visible support structures to keep it together, no venting, no paneling, no nothing except different colors with some scratches in it.

Compared with the other reborn stuff, this one looks bad I think. Sorry. I've seen MUCH better work from you guy's.

P.S great job for these new textures:

Everything he shows ends up being "not finished" once he finds out not many people like it...

yeah, I can't say it better. (Ha ha ha...)

Come on, nice attempt to have this topic locked. I think that such posts will be deleted by moderators (it would be nice).

Back to main topic plz.

The bottom still looks too rusty, but it looks usable now.

Nice work.

Of course, this is supposed to be in the future. Tiberian Sun isn't based in current times, maybe they have invented new techniques for holding things together.

Then why even bother showing the horrid thing to anyone? Good luck trying to "skin" an object that had no skin to begin with...

I think you can answer this question : for critics then we modify it.

That's what I am doing.

Why do you say that if you exploded on HTMLGOD when he gave really useful constructive criticism?
