And this never warranted a whole thread.

EDIT: By the way, if anything, downloading RenAlert is more like downloading communism, since it actually has communistic references in it.

And communism isn't inherently evil. The leaders that impose it are. (In most scenarios, anyways...)

Are you on crack? A quarter of Germany has Communism imposed on them after the Second World War and that means all Germans are Commies? If you are going to keep that kind of prejudice you might as well say they are all Fascists, because at least then you'll be talking about what the whole country went through.

NOTE: These are not my feelings towards Germans; I was merely making a point.

Socialism\Communism. Notice I slashed it into two separate parts. If you paid any attention to world politics you'd realize a good part of Europe, including Germany, are socialist nations.

Thus, "socialism" applies. Communism did apply for a time before the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics broke apart.

Umm, are you an idiot Loobie? Socialist refers to an advocate of socialism, or someone who's a member of the socialist party. Socialism is the form of government. They're different parts of the same thing.

Communism is marked by public ownership of all property, and making labor work for everyone, instead of just yourself.

If you go by dictionary definitions, socialism and communism are almost the same thing. Maybe you need to read the dictionary instead, you fool.

That's the thing. I never said they were the same thing. Now if you can take some Ritalin and pay attention, Retardin, you'll see what I was talking about.

com·mu·nism P Pronunciation Key (kmy-nzm)

A theoretical economic system characterized by the collective ownership of property and by the organization of labor for the common advantage of all members.

so·cial·ism P Pronunciation Key (ssh-lzm)
n.

Any of various theories or systems of social organization in which the means of producing and distributing goods is owned collectively or by a centralized government that often plans and controls the economy.

The stage in Marxist-Leninist theory intermediate between capitalism and communism, in which collective ownership of the economy under the dictatorship of the proletariat has not yet been successfully achieved.

What do you know? It's almost the same thing.

Quote:the term democratic socialist and social democrat have often been used interchangeably.

However, increasingly, the former term denotes a more left wing position that still believes in the socialist transformation of society, usually in an evolutionary socialist manner, while the latter indicates those who do not believe in the abolition of capitalism but simply in making capitalism more equitable and humane.

And by the way... even if you wonder you wont find any european country under the list of: Past and present communist-doctrine states wald-wolfaircraftkiller you better stfu because you talking crap. (my opinion as a german born on the east side) all germans laughed at your post that show completely that you have no clue at all about germany. (may be you got your finger pointed to germany on a map but i think thats the only point in your live you had direct contact with germany) with that opinion you better dont set a foot on germany because you will be recognized as the fool you are instantly.

anyway before philosophizing about politics in germany i think you have a enought todo over there with your own politicians.

dont you think its part of the logic that you first proof your stements before we have to proof them wrong? (hint consistency of logic systems) because i didnt find arguments that really count. for your reign statement, (apart from it beeing relativ) dont you find it strange that now more than 20 germans (i know) that read this, disagree? but wait ack does know better because he has a deep inside (more than germans) on the topic.

read our official name again "Bundesrepublik Deutschland". the ddr joined in there . and the BRD was build by the side that was against the communism (remember history?). germany (BRD+DDR) is build on the laws and system of the BRD.

so much for your lesson. still you cant write a simple name. so if you going to be on your dump lvl further this was my last post.

btw only real proof for you would be actually coming over here to visit europe/germany go to the parlament and so on. was a good try to get a free fly from those who know your wrong.

That's not capitalism.

"An economic system in which the means of production and distribution are privately or corporately owned and development is proportionate to the accumulation and reinvestment of profits gained in a free market."

It doesn't involve creating a welfare state, which is what Germany is. That's a part of socialism.

Whats so hard to understand that Germany DOES NOT BASE OF MARXS IDEAS?
In fact these 'welfare things' were 'invented' by Bismark, and he was a member of the Monarchist party... they don't like Marx and Communist. :rolleyes:

Reasons why Germany (and other European countrys) are NOT basing on Marks ideas:

- We don't have a 2 layer community like marks stated.
- Our companys are not controlled by the government
- We don't try to be autak (thats whyt the Soviet Unin tried, that wahts the DDR tried, thats what China DID untill some years [these are country's slightly based on Marx Theroie])

Can you count up some arguments WHY Germany (and other European country's) are based on marx ideas?

Ok now that I've actually looked into it I found this Quote:Standing for the destruction of the capitalist state by the organised working class, Marxism

Marxism is Revolutionary.

Marxism shares with other progressive social movements an uncompromising hostility to all forms of domination — sexism, racism, and so on, but what marks Marxism out from other progressive movements is that Marxists struggle always to overcome the manifold forms of domination and exploitation in and through the self-emancipation of the working class. Thus Marxism is Revolutionary Socialism.

German and European governments aren't Revolutionary so cannot be based on Marxism, devoed. The website is called "Value_of_Knowledge" maybe you should learn what this is ACK.

Capitalism is an ECONOMIC policy, not an political one. A totalitarian dictator can have a capitalistic economy.

This is why Pre-WW2 Germany and the USSR had a love-hate relationship. Their Political views were the same, but their economic policy was different. Germany incorporated "good of the state" by way of capitalism, while the USSR did the exact same thing by way of Communism.

You know if you're going to argue the least you can do is prove your argument as being correct instead of giving me this drivell. It doesn't matter if it can be viewed in different ways. According to the dictionary, Germany is based on Marxist ideology. OK, well "love-hate" was perhaps the wrong phrase to use.

The real only differences between Fascism and Communism is their Economic policies, and the political decisions based around that aspect; and the idea of making people equal. Both styles offered NO political freedom.s whatsoever. There was ONE ruler (1 individual or 1 group), where the average person had no say in how the country was run. As I stated, the political views were the same (notice how they both oppose any type of democracy, that is what the cold war was about you know...), but the economic views were different; to the point of them dispising each other because of that.

welfare state

n : a government that undertakes responsibility for the welfare of its citizens through programs in public health and public housing and pensions and unemployment compensation etc

Whoever can use this to better their arguement, go for it.

Edit: by the way, anything relating to anti-capitalism is, in part though not completely, communist -based. Social assistance (in any form) is one examply of a communistic/socialistic ideal.

usa have no pensions , not any programs (unimportant what actually they do) for unemployed people and all that things ? not a little bit? (i dont know 100% because i dont life there) but if there is something like that: usa must be "based" on a welfare program according to ack's preferred line of argumentation.

i not deny that germany is one but this doesnt mean "Socialism\Communism reigns supreme" here. they only raise the standards for everyone. (raise the lower bound, but dont make everyone equal)

Can you not simply make a list, like I did, WHY germany is based on marx theories?

Because, come on well-fare is not a good argument.
Marx don't thought about well-fare when he stated 'equal live circumstances', he meant, that EVERYTHING is owned by the working-class, noone 'owns' something, just the community.
Come and visit Germany and you'll see we all wear different closes, eat different things and (nearly) all companys are private.

Why should I list anything but what I already did? I proved my point, you failed to prove yours. I'm not going to find more connections because my entire argument was that Germany was based on at least one ideal of Marxism.

When you read this topic, You can really notice the difference between people who live in the U.S.A and those who live in Europe. I live in Holland (yes, that lies in Europe too). The government out here is crappy though. With their ideas. Infact, The working man pay's for their mistakes. And I kinda see the same things in the U.S.A. Bush. I don't understand why people vote om him again. It's a nice shit he's making out there in Iraq.

"I proved my point" <- where?

"my entire argument was that Germany was based on at least one ideal of Marxism. " THAT IS NOT YOUR STATEMENT you said "Not really, the Reborn team comes from Germany. Socialism\Communism reigns supreme there."

because one point in common can clearly not make it reign supreme here.

By Ack's logic, Denmark is a capitalistic, communistic, facistic, critsian state.

And communism is quite large in the US.

You know, we actually in Denmark have a serious party saying no taxes and put all imigrants on a plane and dump them over Africa. If you call that communistic, then you have a problem.

Not only that! Austria, The Netherlands and France, had that kind of a political Party too... Think of Jörg Heider, le pain (can't remember the correct spelling of that French guy anymore) and Pim Fortuyn (who got shot on 6th may 2002).. if you call these poeple communistic, then you've born in the wrong side of the town.

Also, Pim Fortuyn USED to be a Communist when he was a "young one".

Actually, Pim Fortuyn was different then le pain and Jörg heider... Pim Fortuyn was a bit political left (european Version) Compared to le pain and Jörg Heider.

None of that has anything to do with Germany being based on at least one ideal of Marxism.

It honestly looks like you're talking about yourself. Little children often write just as poorly as you do while utilizing the same horrid logic, "i must be teh betar than joo cuz im not posteing teh stuffz!"

Idiot.
