i dont know if the game adds those side bars by themselves or not, just let me know, Ill add them.

youll have to do the alpha.

Edit: oh and i didnt size it.

You're so kind

(oh, and I don't think it adds that other scope stuff, there's that clear scope skin? it's not there, I think it's drawn in, not sure about that though... never used that snipers scope too much)

Cya in the morning!

It's cheap because it can be considered as cheating. When using the clear scope, you can see more than player without the clear scope. If it was up to me, I'd say it's cheating in a other way than using, for example, the instant kill cheat.

Put more detail into the scope, that is what makes it good. Like the little eye and the semi-transparent green.

If you are prepared to call clearscope a cheat then you should be prepared to call ANY other sniper scope a cheat. Including the one in this thread because technically you can see more than the original scope. And its only does instant kills if you have the skill enough to shoot someone in the head. And if you still call this cheating then how about the people who use bright green or bright orange 500 sniper skins. People with those skins obviously have an advantage over people with regulare 500 sniper skins. The fact is that you cant call stuff like this on an easily customizable game such as renegade cheating.

Because it is. Anything that gives an unfair advantage over somebody shouldn't be used. This including the clear scope and all bright colored skins for characters and beacons.

I made the scope, But I don't have a clue about how to implement it into the game. I might be able to stick a slight green colour in the centre. Ill have a go at that now. If anybody else wants to try to implement that scope into the game, feel free. I personally wouldn't use it because there are no lines emanating from the centre vertically and horizontally to make sniping slightly easier.
