Yes, you know my religious beliefs. But that doesn't mean I can't post insightful stories that also pertain to what I believe.

Quote:There was a certain Professor of Religion named Dr. Christianson, a studious man who taught at a small college in the Western United States. Dr. Christianson taught the required survey course in Christianity at the particular institution. Every student was required to take this course his or her freshman year regardless of his or her major.

Although Dr. Christianson tried hard to communicate the essence of the gospel in his class, he found that most of his students looked upon the course as nothing but required drudgery. Despite his best efforts, most students refused to take Christianity seriously. This year, Dr. Christianson had a special student named Steve.

Steve was only a freshman, but was studying with the intent of going onto seminary for the ministry. Steve was popular, he was well liked, and he was an imposing physical specimen. He was now the starting center on the school football team, and was the best student in the professor's class.

One day, Dr. Christian son asked Steve to stay after class so he could talk with him. "How "Can you do 300 in sets of 10? I have a class project in mind and I need you to do about 300 push-ups in sets of ten for this to work. I need you to do this on Friday. Let me explain what I have

Friday came and Steve got to class early and sat in the front of the room. When class started, the professor pulled out a big box of donuts. No, these weren't the normal kinds of donuts, they were the fancy BIG kind, with cream centers and frosting swirls. Everyone was pretty excited it was Friday, the last class of the day, and they were going to get an early start on the weekend with a party in Dr. Christianson's class.

Dr. Christianson went to the first girl in the first row and asked, "Cynthia, do you want to have Cynthia said yes. Dr. Christianson then turned to Steve and asked, "Steve, would you do ten desk.

Dr. Christianson put a donut on Cynthia's desk. Dr. Christianson then went to Joe, the next got a donut. And so it went, down the first aisle, Steve did ten push-ups for every person before they go their donut.

Walking down the second aisle, Dr. Christianson came to Scott. Scott was on the basketball team and in as good condition as Steve. He was very popular and never lacking for female

Then Scott said, "Well, I don't want one then."

Dr. Christianson shrugged and then turned to Steve and asked, "Steve, would you do ten started to do ten pushups.

Dr. Christianson said, "Look, this is my classroom, my class, my a donut on Scott's desk.

Now by this time, Steve had begun to slow down a little. He just stayed on the floor between sets because it took too much effort to be getting up and down. You could start to see a little perspiration coming out around his brow.

Dr. Christianson started down the third row. Now the students were beginning to get a little angry.

Dr. Christianson asked Steve, "Steve, would you do ten more push-ups so Jenny can have a

By now, a growing sense of uneasiness filled the room. The students were beginning to say forth a lot of extra effort to get these push-ups done for each donut. There began to be a small pool of sweat on the floor beneath his face, his arms and brow were beginning to get red because of the physical effort involved.

Dr. Christianson asked Robert, who was the most vocal unbeliever in the class, to watch Steve do each push-up because he couldn't bear to watch all of Steve's work for all of those uneaten donuts. He sent Robert over to where Steve was so Robert could count the set and watch Steve closely.

Dr. Christianson started down the fourth row. During his class, however, some students from other classes had wandered in and sat down on the steps along the radiators that ran down the sides of the room. When the professor realized this, he did a quick count and saw that now there were 34 students in the room. He started to worry if Steve would be able to make it.

Dr. Christianson went on to the next person and the next and the next. Near the end of that row, Steve was really having a rough time. He was taking a lot more time to complete each set.

A few moments later, Jason, a recent transfer student, came to the room and was about to come didn't know what was going on. Steve picked up his head and said, "No, let him come."

Professor Christianson said, "You realize that if Jason comes in you will have to do ten Dr. Christianson said, "Okay, Steve, I'll let you get Jason's out of the way right now, very slowly and with great effort. Jason, bewildered, was handed a donut and sat down.

Dr. Christianson finished the fourth row, and then started on those visitors seated by the heaters. Steve's arms were now shaking with each push-up in a struggle to lift himself against the force of gravity. By this time, sweat was profusely dropping off of his face, there was no sound except his heavy breathing; there was not a dry eye in the room.

The very last two students in the room were two young women, both cheerleaders, and very popular. Dr. Christianson went to Linda, the second to the last, and asked, "Linda, do you

Professor Christianson quietly asked, "Steve, would you do ten push-ups so that Linda can Grunting from effort, Steve did ten very slow push-ups for Linda. Then Dr. Christianson turned to

Dr. Christianson with tears of his own, said, "No, Steve has to do it alone. I have given him this task and he is in charge of seeing that everyone has an opportunity for a donut whether they want it or not. When I decided to have a party this last day of class, I looked in my grade book. Steve, here is the only student with a perfect grade. Everyone else has failed a test, skipped class, or offered me inferior work. Steve told me that in football practice, when a player messes up, he must do push-ups. I told Steve that none of you could come to my party unless he paid the price by doing your push-ups. He and I made a deal for your sakes. Steve, would you do ten

As Steve very slowly finished his last pushup, with the understanding that he had accomplished all that was required of him, having done 350 push-ups, his arms buckled beneath him and he fell to the floor.

Dr. Christianson turned to the room and said, "And so it was, that our Savior, Jesus Christ, on the cross, pleaded to the Father, 'Into Thy hands I commend my Spirit.' With the understanding that He had done everything that was required of Him, He yield up His life. And like some of those in this room, many of us leave the gift on the desk, uneaten."

Two students helped Steve up off the floor and to a seat, physically exhausted, but wearing a thin smile.

understand and fully comprehend all the riches of grace and mercy that have been given to you by God through the sacrifice of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

"He spared not only His only begotten Son, but gave Him up for us all now and forever. Whether or not we choose to accept His gift to us, the price has been paid. Wouldn't you be foolish and Ok, bad joke. It was still an interesting comparison though.

What about the eventual day that even you will die?

Also, being a Christian is more about living than you can possible imagine.

To die as a Christian is to immeadeatly enter into the physical presence of God and is thus a reward. Living is the challenge.

No, being a Christian is all about focusing on how he died and all the horrible things that people have done. If you switch the stories in the bible with children stories, I don't think the kids could tell the difference.

I find you at fault for saying the challenge is living. No, the real challenge is not shooting someone in the face because people (in general) are complete idiots and make life worse. I ask you why fight to live in order to die? I mean we are all dying with every minute that passes and in the end you just end up becoming an old man/woman that wears adult diapers and needs someone to feed you. I just find it pointless to fight to live, if someone sticks a gun in your face, you just need to say #$$@ it and see if you can live.

I also find it funny you mention that living is a challenge, it seems to me all Christians just prey to their 'GOD' for their life to work out. Why don't you solve the problem yourself? I also wonder why you thank your GOD when something good happens and curse your luck when something bad happens.....why not blame your GOD? Is he not responsible for your outcome in life?

Note: I say this with basis upon the average Christian.

I couldn't agree more. I am a devout Roman Catholic, but even I agree that God isn't here to solve all our problems. However...

Quote: I also wonder why you thank your GOD when something good happens and curse your luck when something bad happens.....why not blame your GOD? Is he not responsible for your outcome in life?

The problem is, people DO blame God for their "bad luck". Think of it this way though. Would you rather erroneously thank someone for something they haven't done, or erroneously blame someone for something that is not their fault?

Why does one prey to God in times of physical need (when God in fact will do nothing to affect the free will of anyone) and then not curse God when something bad happens. It seems to be a double standard on our part.

God doesn't have to grant you everything you ask for. When you pray to him, he answers you. What's wrong with a lot of Christians is that they think because God doesn't answer their prayers the way they want them to, they think God hasn't answered their prayers. Which as I just said, He did answer them, just not in the way that the person wanted.

Why would I curse someone who has given me so much? He tests us every day, and every little problem and hardship is just another one of his tests to see how strong our faith is.

If you pray to God when you're being beaten by someone else. He will not answer you. That is the point I am trying to get across. Remember, having a cop show up at the right time does not mean God intervened. There is a big difference between coincidence and Divine Intervention. You'll note that in the Bible, not ONCE did God Himself (at least in the new testament) physically screw around with one's free will. If he has, please prove it.

There are certain situations, I agree, where God MIGHT influence reality. But the circumstances of said situations are not knowable as God's motives are infinitely more complex than this reality.

Ok, I would first like to say I was in catholic school from kindergarten to the 4th grade so your statement is utterly false. I do regret my parents putting me through that since I learned nothing but fairy tales and false idols.

I would also like to say that this is a political/hot issues section and this is not mainly dedicated to video games so we are free to argue away about how you are indeed moronic for believing in false hopes. I have also stated that my statement is based on the general Catholics so you can stuff it.

Kindergarten to 4th grade. Am I supposed to be amazed? I went to a Catholic school from Preschool to 6th grade. Then I transferred to a Protestant school from 7th through my senior year in high school from which I graduated earlier this year. I have just a little bit more of an understanding than you.

I know you didn't learn shit from your experience, and that's all the Catholic school teaches you anyways. Stories up the fucking ying-yang. Which is why I know you know very little about my religion, especially since I'm Protestant.

i would say disposableh brings up a good point but there you go. about the story, it's good but it's only an analogy on how you should be grateful of the things you are given and things available to you. i recognised this at about halfway or so in. not a story of the credibility of jesus or the bible (and probably just as well so).

i would rather thank shopkeepers and marketers who go out day after day to sell the food; things are seldom "gifts" anymore since you need the money to receive the gifts. no man will do three hundred and fifty push ups to give other people food, unless he was sponsored or paid or what have you. waaaaaaay to much greed and selfishness in all of us, and no amount of stories and teaching will get a man to change his ways. i think it all amounts to their never being a selfless good deed among any of us..... perhaps the buddha would understand.

Define Against Your Free Will...

Does it not imply that someting is imposed upon you, without your desire?

So, if you "ASK" God for help, insight, direction, etc... you can thank him when you feel you have made the correct choice, or feel that he has given you the proper guidance you were seeking..

Unless you asked for your life to fall apart, he didn't have anything to do with it.. that's just called "Life".

But again, when you plead with him for the guidance to help you out of a shithole.. don't forget to say thanks again.

Did you not learn from your Bible studies to be kind to those even if they are bitter towards you? You know the whole treat others as you want to be treated. I would also like to point out that you should be impressed by me leaving at 4th grade because I was smart enough to leave. If you are unimpressed that is fine because your opinion really doesn't matter to me, I only care about my good friend the :twisted: .

What I am really trying to point out is that this story is complete bull and yet you simple minded peons believe in this "true" story. When I was reading this story I was reminded about Jack and the Beanstalk and was thinking within this world, you know the real one, that this would never be possible. However you HAVE to hold onto this story for false hope and that makes you weak.

My "so called" beliefs (I like to look them as a good idea) is to live life as you go. Now the problem with your "beliefs" is people will die and kill for them where an idea is easy to change without any agony.

You don't know shit about my faith even though you say you do because you experieced four years of story telling.

What you also don't realize is that it actually takes a strong person to believe in something higher. I know this because I find myself holding onto my beliefs, not because they seem farfetched and wrong, but rather because I'm getting myself too involved into the world and almost voluntarily forcing myself away from my beliefs. Not to mention that I have my doubts, but I manage to rethink about it and reassure myself that my faith is correct. Instead, you can just shrug off every little thought of a higher being, and do as you please.

everybody is living life as they go, so yeah they will kill over it..as for the reply above. can I ask you a question? i think you said a few replies back you were a christian.....what if, and this is just if....the bible was not taught to people anymore? what if I grew up without even knowing it existed, to have parents staunch enemies of the entire belief in religion. would I be punished in heaven for not believing in god, when i did not know about him in the first place? all it would take would be a lifetime of about eighty years without anybody speaking of it or having versions of it on their website...what happens then? when everybody has forgotten about it and it cannot be taught anymore? we RELY on it being taught, then we are given the choice of choosing to believe in it or not.

God would know that humans are very selfish and would quicker believe what he can see rather than what he would at first consider a phantom, somebody in a story. so then why are we given the choice if it is an absolute truth he exists? don't get me wrong, i've said it before I like some parts of the bible, like the stories it tells of. but it's got more holes in it than a pair of my old socks.

Why tell people that there is no God? Why attack a religion? If they do worship their gods, then they obviously want or need to, so these silly arguments will get you nowhere. Many people use religion as their hope, their reason for life. Why would you try and take that away? When it comes right down to it, religious arguments just end up being "you're wrong!" Everyone claims to be right...everyone claims to have the one and only truth, the complete picture, the coveted knowledge that no one else has...

Won't it be interesting, in the end, to find out what's REALLY going on? I mean, what would everyone do if they found out that no one had the right idea? And what if everyone, and I mean everyone, had a small piece of the truth- like a piece of a puzzle- and the real truth will never be known until all the pieces come together? What if we're ALL right?

There have been millions of religions- if not billions- since humanity came into existence. Who's to say that any one religion is any more "right" than any other? Looking at history, it is possible, even probable, that in several thousand years today's primary religions will be but minor cults practicing somewhere in the background.

Tolerance is key. Billions of humans inhabit this planet, and no two share the exact same set of beliefs. There is always a possibility, however small, that someone else may be the one who knows "the way" and not you. Follow the teachings of your religion, but don't allow yourself to fall into the trap of hating others for their beliefs.

You'll never know for sure until you die, after all.

He says he doesn't have a religion. That means he doesn't. Believing in nothing is not a religion per se, thus he was correct. Agnosticism is not a religion.

Quote:ag-nos-ti-cism (P) Pronunciation Key (g-nst-szm)

- n.
1. The doctrine that certainty about first principles or absolute truth is unattainable and that only perceptual phenomena are objects of exact knowledge.
 2. The belief that there can be no proof either that God exists or that God does not exist.

Quote:re-li-gion (P) Pronunciation Key (r-ljn)

- n.
1. A) Belief in and reverence for a supernatural power or powers regarded as creator and governor of the universe. B) A personal or institutionalized system grounded in such belief and worship.
 2. The life or condition of a person in a religious order.

3. A set of beliefs, values, and practices based on the teachings of a spiritual leader.
 4. A cause, principle, or activity pursued with zeal or conscientious devotion.
- Does not agnosticism fit in with the fourth definition of religion as it is a conscientious devotion to believe that God cannot be proven nor disproven?

Is not his belief in no particular established religion an activity pursued with conscientious devotion?

hydra1945Does not agnosticism fit in with the fourth definition of religion as it is a conscientious devotion to believe that God cannot be proven nor disproven?

Careful, you're only half right there. Agnosticism, by definition is ambiguous.

"ag·nos·tic (P) Pronunciation Key (g-nstkn.
n.

1. One who believes that it is impossible to know whether there is a God.
One who is skeptical about the existence of God but does not profess true atheism.
2. One who is doubtful or noncommittal about something."

I would argue sternly that the latter is more correct than the former in that agnosticism (as an agnostic theist myself) works with three simple words: "I don't know". It is the perfect shade of gray between the black and white. The premise of the "belief" (and I use that very loosely, because the belief is only in the possibility that one does not have a clue and not of the nature of God) is that God may or may not exist, and that is where the shades of grey (like the ideal left-right political spectrum) come in.

Remember, agnosticism is not a religion. It is a profession of ignorance. But it is one that is often open-minded to what might or might not be true. So there is (generally) no conscientious devotion to the belief of "I don't know".

Now that last post I made was aimed directly toward you to prove how big headed you are and to show that you are not as smart as you think. Then you go further to prove how smart you are knowing it was a quote from you when it shows your name. When I made that post I was saying in the previous statements I have created that they are not all directed to you, I just felt that you seemed like the biggest moron to quote (and to get your attention). I suggest that you stop posting here because every time you do you just degrade yourself even more.

Joining a forum and flaming veterans is roughly equivalent to arriving late to a party then annoying the guests who have been there from the beginning. There's nothing wrong with stating your opinions, but when you attack someone who already has lots of support from the community while you have none, you cannot expect to come out on top. Religion is a touchy subject; flame someone's religion and expect to be buried in shit. Heated discussions about religion are NOT the place to give someone the E-finger, especially not if you do so with your first few posts.

He's done no such thing. He's merely expressed his views on religion by, in his logic (which in religious terms is absolutely no less correct than your own) showing why other religions didn't cut it for him.

It's YOUR choice to extrapolate his opinions to degrade other theologies. That's not his fault, though.

j_ball430In the Bible it states that just by looking around you, you will be able to tell that there is a higher being that created it, so don't go saying this bullshit.

Why do I have to reevaluate my situation? You have yet to give me proof that they are showing the bible more true everyday. You also say I am a idiot and then say I have some intelligence.....hmmmmmm, I wonder who would listen to you on this when you show everyone that you are a hypocrite.

Here is the meaning of degrade:

1 a : to lower in grade, rank, or status : DEMOTE b : to strip of rank or honors c : to lower to an inferior or less effective level d : to scale down in desirability or salability

2 a : to bring to low esteem or into disrepute b : to drag down in moral or intellectual character : CORRUPT

3 : to impair in respect to some physical property

4 : to wear down by erosion

5 : to reduce the complexity of (a chemical compound) : DECOMPOSE

intransitive senses

1 : to pass from a higher grade or class to a lower

2 of a chemical compound : to become reduced in complexity

If you were to be degraded for every stupid thing you have posted so far you would be a n00b, and just because I take on a 'veteran' does not mean I am fighting a lost cause. It seems to me that there are more people here that hate you then me.....so one can assume that I am winning if needed to be put in those terms.

Paper bag lmao.....The last time I heard that was from my 9 year old cousin when he was bickering with his sister, are you sure you are 18? Come on, you can tell us the truth.

Yeah, the bible also says that gays will go to hell, the world will end by 4 (7) horseman, that men are better then women and yet anyone who believes in god and ask for his forgiveness will go to heaven. How can you say gays will go to hell and then say if they ask for forgiveness that they will go to heaven? It is a book written by man and none other.

I am confused as to how I was able to pull degrade out of my ass since this word was created before I was born and it is located in the dictionary. When you stat that someone pulls something from their ass you are saying they are making it up. Here, I will give you an example:

j_ball430 is the l337355 (elite) person around on this forum, this is purely fictional though.

Don't worry, I will get to the whole bible thing in good time. I say from now on you can no longer reference to my intellect since you are unable to make up your mind. One post you say I am an idiot and the next you say I have some resemblance of intelligence.....If you feel I have some intelligence why must you "dumb" down your post so I would be able to comprehend.

If you are at the bottom of the chain, how can someone respect you? That is saying you respect a piece of shit at the bottom of your shoe. It's not going to happen because everyone hates when you get shit on your shoe!

So you say I think I am a big shot huh? If you talk to any of my friends or even knew me just a little you would know I don't like myself at all.....However I hate you more. I just hate people that think everyone likes them even if they are at the "bottom of the chain".

I will state this; I am not all that smart (not near as smart as a lot of other people) however I have more common sense and intelligence than what you have j_ball430. See the funny thing is I can make an ass of myself since this is expected (I am not a veteran). However you are a veteran and you are required to show intelligence and know what you are talking about.

P.S. I am still waiting for this proof that they are able to prove the bible stories are real.

There you go, I never said that it just comes out and says that gays are bad. However if you look through the bible you will notice it references a lot about man and women and that is how it was intended. There is also one that says god created Man then Women and so shall it be. This indicates that it was meant to be man and women and in that order so we are to place men higher then women.

I'm saying you are pulling your arguments out of your ass. I know you didn't pull the word "degrade" out of your ass because I used it as well.

Just because someone's an idiot doesn't mean that they can't have any possible stroke of genius. I know of plenty circumstances where some one who isn't much brighter than a dank cave comes up with a good idea.

I said whether or not I'm at the bottom of the chain. I didn't say I was, and I didn't say I wasn't. I have plenty of people who agree with me. Most just don't post on this forum, or in this section.

Here's a prime example of your idiocy. It's stupid to hate someone. It's a needless waste of energy and time. I don't care enough about you or anyone else to have any hatred towards you and others. It just makes no sense to.

Just because I'm a veteran on these forums doesn't mean I can't make an ass of myself. I do it all the time. Sometimes on purpose, and others just by pure stupidity.

I'm not stupid by any means. I'm extremely bright. You just have to know me to know this. Everybody that I've had a civil conversation with knows that I have a good amount of intelligence. Whether or not I show it on here doesn't really matter.

P.S. I'm not going to give you any proof because arguing on a subject where both sides are firm in their beliefs is pointless. You will not budge the other side unless you can prove them wrong. Neither you or I can prove either side right or wrong.

No shit. I'm just saying that the Bible doesn't say that they're going to Hell because they're queer.

With me being religious, wouldn't you think that I already knew that the Bible only spoke of one man and one woman marriages?

Actually, since you're trying to show that you're more intelligent than someone else on this forum, it DOES matter if you can prove it via your actions...

Perhaps you should try thinking before you write, or reading your posts before hitting that submit button.

Good one, yet easily debunked.

I wasn't referring to this thread. Also, if he's an idiot, I don't have to try very hard to prove I'm more intelligent than he is. It just should come off as such.

Another thing, I revoke all remarks made on Wednesday. My stress level was through the roof.

Well as you know if it is not the will of GOD it is considered a sin. GOD did not mean for us to kill each other, steal, or have promiscuous sex with others and that is considered a sin. Since these are not the will of GOD they are sins.....You see where I am going here? If GOD meant it to be Man and Women only, that is his will, hence if a man and man or women and women that is a sin because GOD does not intend for this to happen. I know it is hard to understand this, however you have to apply previous teachings (rules) that are in the bible to fully understand what the bible is trying to get across.

Main Entry: id•i•o•c•y

Pronunciation: 'i-dE-&-sE

Function: noun

Inflected Form(s): plural -cies

1 usually offensive : extreme mental retardation

2 : something notably stupid or foolish

If I was an idiot, I have extreme mental retardation and I doubt I would be able to have an intelligent thought. Now just because someone is able to come up with a good idea doesn't mean they are intelligent, it is possible they just had a fluke (definition below) and they were able to come up with something that worked. Also if the issue deals with common sense that has nothing to do with intelligence. You can have an intelligent person that has no common sense, I believe some people would say he is the smartest dumbest person they have meet. You could call that a double negative if you like because you cannot have a smart dumb person, they are complete opposites. So you are still unable to remark about any ones intelligence since you are unable to understand this and cannot make up your mind if I am an idiot or intelligent.

Main Entry: 3fluke

Function: noun

Etymology: origin unknown

1 : an accidentally successful stroke at billiards or pool

2 : a stroke of luck <the discovery was a fluke>
