Okay, this is sort of lame, if you hate my website topics where I bother people or I ask people to help me please don't read on.

Okay, at the top of my website it says: | Log In | Private Messages | Register | Your Profile | Member List |

Does that look okay? I wanted to do this so people would sign up on my forums, and I want to integrate the forums with my site, while keeping the HTML method.

So you are basically asking if those links look okay in that order? What is the point in asking that? I might aswell ask you if my samwich would taste better if I put an extra slice of cucumber on it.
