Maybe it is good idea to have some kinda Renguard Buddy list where people can search for a username (practically the same way as the locator) and click ADD TO BUDDY LIST.

This then appears in a personal List somewhere on the RG site.

Maybe a good idea to have some kinda module on the RG MOTD so people can see who is online when they log on to the RG Network. It is then they can click the username and find out what server they are in, and how populated it is.

Then 'maybe' later on you could implement a PM function so users can actively chat, just like they do on MSN, AIM, etc...

Just speaking my mind

Andy.

I brought this up ages ago, the hope is that EVENTUALLY all of that including a server browser will be integrated directly into RG. But, many many many many things are in front of all that on the to-do list.

Hm, a rg buddy list would be very easy, I think every1 who has a website and a good knowledge in PHP can do this.

the RG buddy list itself isn't hard at all, but my request included a working paging system as well as direct integration to RG.
