Unfortunately they do need to already have your map before they can play.

Unlike newer games where as the map automaticly transfers to the other player when they join your game. I really wished renegade was like that too

Unless there is another hosted server that allows maps to be sent like that.

It's better that Renegade doesn't. Map sizes can be huge if not compressed. It's just a hassle on the gameserver if it does have to serve files as well as hosing a game.
