People are playing them, and if you dont want to play 1vs1 then join the clans ladder you can play as many as you want as long as they are on the ladder

1 vs 1 is a battle of speed, not skill.

1v1 on non d maps is retarded. Otherwise its actually a good representation of skill. Idealy field.

You can play a 4v4 for example, and that would be equivalent to four 1v1s. Each player of the losing team would have to report a loss to each winning member.

You don't have to be in any clan, or join anything but the 1v1 ladder to do this.

You can also join clans on the ladder to play larger games.

People who say 1v1s don't take skill know absolutely nothing about 1v1s.

um let's see... you actually need to win the game using your own abilities instead of relying on the rest of your team to cover for you? what's so hard to understand here?

Trying to get away from this.. if they want to play larger games then join the clans ladder if 1v1 is not so skillful, why would the same people win over others? because they're lucky? the whole point of "skill" is one being better than the other, which is obvious in 1v1's because you see the same people winning 1v1s no matter how many games are played. It's just an excuse that someone would say it's not skillful.

It doesn't take very much skill to defeat someone in a game where there's no recoil.
