I was playing on my 8 player server when my game crashed to the desktop. I logged back in and my server was still up. I can't join it, nor make another server. I think someone crashed my game and stole my nick to hog my server. I can't do anything. It is still up too. How do I get it back? The server name is ~!~RenGen AOW Server~!~ and it is impossible to get into and Someone is using the server owner hack? I think? Please help.

First goto your Westwood folder, then hit Ctrl + A then Delete.

Make sure its the entire westwood folder, just incase you have other games, we dont want you switching over. Take your Cd's and snap several times. Ask crimson to Block your IP on this website.

OR

You can just wait for the game to go empty, then you can create it again.

If its a true server, not just one on WOL simply kill the connection and use you admin controls to change the settings.

In the mean time you can review your thread count just on this one page:

somone beens doing that to mine, and you get Failed to create game channel.... when you load the server

ive found changing the host name fixes it, but its damn annoying >.<

Are you hosting this on your home PC?

On a side note, please don't revert to your old habits.

I'm not too sure, but I think your upload needs to be REALLY high for that to work, I host my webstie from home and DarkDemin is constantly complaining about how very slow it is.

Oh well, it's effective, right?

Do a speedtest (<http://speedtest.westmancom.com>) and check your upload, post the results here.

Your connection may suck too much () for you to run a server.
