Any reason why you want us to go to Yahoo.com?

Can't you type a URL correctly?

Use this for your banner, ffs. You should never compress a nice banner so much to where it looks like shit.

For the love of God. Go to Clan Templates or something, find a decent layout, and then hack the shit out of it. You are in no way shape or form capable of creating a decent site on your own. Either that, or cough up a few dollars and buy a site off of someone. I bet you'll find some good cheap ones at <http://www.gamerenders.com/forum>.

You know for a minute I thought it meant "last topic about my goddamn shitty no-go lonesome website."

The only half decent part of that website is the banner, which you didn't make.

Stop updating us every time you add a full stop or thicken a border on your website, WE DON'T CARE

Come back when you have something worthy of a website.

I understand him, he wants to do better. I couldn't do too well when I wanted to make a site either, I used premade templates and such and they usually had bad text styles and stuff....

Deadfive, you need to learn how to make your site. I mean, in a nutshell, you need to learn how to use Photoshop to make a template. I use it for all my templates now, plus the little amount of HTML and CSS I know.

You can look at <http://www.good-tutorials.com/tutorials/5> to see how to make templates in Photoshop, I'm sure that you seem dedicated to your site enough to learn to use it.

Don't try to make anything elaborate. I tried to, but now I'm aiming for a simpler effect like this: <http://arctic.trielite.net/htmlproject/> compared to my current template.

Unless you want to be a Web Development site, having an elaborately decorated site isn't the best. You just need it to be presentable.

And maybe only post here when you add to your content deadfiveMy whole goal for this design was to make it "neat" and "organized" and "presentable."

I know, but I'm sorry to say that it just doesn't look that great. Okay, well, if you want to use that one...

1. The banner

The banner is compressed like my mom's rice crispy squares. Fix it.

2. The background

You can probably stand to make a black background with maybe a scan line put lightly overtop.

3. The tables

It's the tables with the content that need fixing. Change the color to something other than the background, you want the content boxes to be different from the background.

Yeah, that's about it. The simplicity is wonderful, however I'm glad to see someone isn't a graphics whore

If you look at your current one in any other resolution than your own, you'll see that it's messed up in more than just one area. Plus, with all those ads and popups, it's not a desirable site to go to.

<http://www.irfanview.com/> and copy the banner in your signature (not the one on your site), place it in the program, and save it as jpg at 100%.

deadfivel will stop using "your" banner as soon as I finish the one I am making. You know, I've been reading many of your retarded posts for a while, and I've come to a conclusion: You're a jackass.

Especially after seeing that you would actually quote yourself in your own signature about something that will never amount to anything.

Invest in some books on Photoshop and web design.. I'm not a great coder (just ask Scorpio9a or Silent_Kane), but I buy books so that I can learn how to do certain things, and they also serve for good references. Once you get your books, practice what you've learnt and try different things. Thats how I got better. Well, I'm still not one of the better ones but I'm getting there
