In the beginning I was ok with the war, now its over and we the U.S.A losing troops by the hundreds every week. I don't make any extra money for joining that army shit. Hell fighting for Bush is like committing suicide, Why fight in a war were you know the chances of you dying are 1 out of every 20 troops. I'd rather smoke all day then join the army, Do remember the Old Days when leaders and kings help fight in battle, now they sit at home, safe and order you around. Shit with all our soldiers gone, dead, or hurt .

Who will Fight in the war against N.Korea, cause it's coming. U.S.A. so weak right now , It's just a matter of time before someone strike our weak ass homeland(usa) again.

So Back To The Topic, Do You Think Fighting For President Bush Is Worth Your Life?

We're not fighting for President Bush. We're fighting for the protection of the United States and the freedom of the Middle East and it's people. But most importantly, we're fighting to defend the world.

Why fuck up so many lifes to free people who dont want wanna be free.

True the middle east should be free but you shouldn't force freedom on them like bush is doing.

Freedom for the middle east in my opinion its their WAR not ours.

I just hate bush simple and plan.

If you like him then I hate you too.

The war was a great idea played out in a ridiculously horrid fashion. The morals and conviction regarding it were completely IN check and every intelligent soldier in any army associated with it would have known it.

They're certainly not fighting FOR President Bush, they're fighting because he told them to do that for the Iraqi people that were being oppressed by Saddam. Now, you need to realize, Bush may be a dimwit, but he has his morals straight. The Iraqi people needed help and he gave it to them in the only way that he could given the circumstances.

Oh, and a 1 in 20 chance of being killed? Well, World War two was something a long the line of 1 in 14, so I'm guessing you're a bit off your rocker when you're comparing the United States Army to that a relatively poor militia of scattered cowards and fundamentalists.

It's endlessly amusing to watch someone who has no major college degree, has no pilot's license nor has the ability to fly a fighter jet, and was never a governor of a major state call the President of the United States a dimwit.

bigejoe14We're not fighting for President Bush. We're fighting for the protection of the United States and the freedom of the Middle East and it's people. But most importantly, we're fighting to defend the world.

I do hope you don't believe we were defending the world from Iraq... Because they're a greater threat now to the world than they ever were under U.N. sanctions. A civil war is at this point entirely inevitable, the 350 tons of RDX that was lost can destroy something like 10,000 commercial airliners, of which before we invaded, all of it was contained within a UN-regulated depot.

ACKIt's endlessly amusing to watch someone who has no major college degree, has no pilot's license nor has the ability to fly a fighter jet, and was never a governor of a major state call the President of the United States a dimwit.

What, may I ask, does the ability to fly a plane have to do with the ability to insult someone's intelligent quotient. Oh, that's right, it doesn't.

Civil war is inevitable if fucks like Newsweek keep screwing everything up. It's damn hard to try to help a country when every liberal world wide is trying his damndest to get us blown up! You don't want to see that 20 more american soldiers died in a suicide TP-ing attack, stop giving them a reason. They get coverage world wide attacking what all the fucking news channels portay as Satanerica. "The Associated Press has received reports tuesday that President Bush actually flayed several Iraqi babies while he was on vacation there making poor people fight to their deaths for the right to be punched in the face." For gods sake why do you think they hate us?

I go over to Nodbugger's house while he is out and his mom lets me in so I can run an endurance race in Gran Turismo 4 on B-spec mode on his PS2 since he never uses it and its a 24 hour race and my brothers use my PS2. I go in, set it up, have it run, make sure the driver does the first few laps ok and then I leave. Now SFE who is a neighbor watches me go in and come out. I come over the next day and Nodbugger answers the door and says "You aren't getting your fucking game back! I can't beleive you! You better watch your back." And I go "What the hell?" Now it would seem that SFE saw me go in and out, and being that I was inside his house, he naturally assumed I must have stolen all his stuff, killed his fish, kicked his dog, and said that ROTC was not as cool as he thinks it is. Now I don't have my game and Nodbugger is mad at me. Now a few days later he is calmed down enough to tell me why he is mad, and I tell him none of that happened. And we have word against word, mine against SFE's. I convince Nodbugger with some more time that SFE was just making it up. There's no evidence, all your stuff is still in your room, and so is your money, and your dog is unkicked. He says that's alright and that he's not mad anymore, but he broke my Gran Turismo disc for revenge. Here I am, doing nothing wrong, with a broken Gran Turismo disc, throuh no fault of my own. I go to SFE and say Dude! Look what you did! Get me another Gran Turismo disc! I love this game and it was expensive! and he won't pay for it. All he says is "mistakes were made, of course not by me, but by... uh... society!"

So I go home depressed, because all I did was nothing, and I lost my favorite PS2 game. Tell me how that is cool?

Fighting for HIM as in his life as a normal man, No. If he was assassinated THEN he is worth fighting for because that involves an attack on the office of President of the United States and the nation itself no matter who the person in office is.

Now, we are not fighting for him. We are fighting to defend America and its freedom and security. We are fighting to kill the people who ordered and carried out / harbor / fought for the MURDER of 3000 innocent Americans on 9/11 and thousands of others around the world. We are fighting to not only protect our freedom, but spread it to others across the globe and stop the senseless murder of thousands of innocent people in countries such as Iraq where Saddam ordered killings left and right, not just killings but outright torture and attacks on his own people for nothing more than religious differences.

That you idiot, is worth dying for.

That you idiot, is worth dying for.

AKA I answered both of his questions. I stated an answer to his question is it worth fighting for, and i also told him why we are fighting and why the war is NOT bad.

Now back to your question , it does not deserve an answer. Its just like you idiots saying "when did saddam threaten us with weapons and war lik omfg" Its basic knowlage and commen sense. The fact that you even have to question clear knowlage and facts like that automaticly throws any opinion you ever state out the window.

That would be your an idiot. Ossama Bin Ladan ordered the murder and had those below him plan details and carry it out. I edited it and re-stated what i said. We are after ALL involved. Those who carried it out, defended those who plotted it those who harbor them and those who support them in they're attack on innocentce.

Saddam did not carry it out no. But he does fall into a few catogories.

A) Harbor , its clear he harbors terrorist. (No i won't give you proof, no its nto because i don't have an answer i just don't think you deserve my time to look it up and prove something thats right there for all the world to see and something anyone with any sense would confirm.)

B) Supporting Terrorist, He offered money for the killing of innocent jews and other innocent people around the world by offering payments to carry out the attacks and then rewards after they have done so.

C) He is a terrorist and tyrant. He murdered no telling how many of his own people and committed a crime against humanity when he killed kurds with Chemical Weapons.

How the fuck do you get money from a war? If I'm not mistaken, wars COST money. If we were greedy, we'd just export to other nations, refuse to import, and keep ourselves locked into an Isolationistic way of life. Obviously, this isn't the case.

Sure, there's always something to gain. We're expanding the free world. Giving more people the ability to have the freedoms that we have. How would you like to disagree with your government, and then be put to death because even one of your own family members snitched on you? I'm sure you would just love that. :rolleyes:

Where else would we go to get Osama? Oh yes, let's hunt down Osama in China! He's obviously not in Afghanistan where we originally thought. :rolleyes:

You fucking liberals can't afford to think for yourselves, can you? All you have to do is think that it could be for oil, have someone tell you that it is, and you won't budge on that belief even when COMMON SENSE tells you otherwise. That's okay, though because mainstream media supports your ideas.

Correct, Osama did. So I fail to see why you stated that Iraq had something to do with 9/11 when, even by your own admission, they didn't? The topic had been started to deal with the war in Iraq, so the only reason to bring in 9/11 as a defence for it would be that you think Saddam had something to do with 9/11.

Interesting how you seem to lable me a "liberal" as some sort of insult. Perhaps you should learn hat liberal means first. Of course, if you want to throw words-as-insults around, you seem to be the one whose mind is broad enough to encompass open ideas of what constitutes participation, with ideals of reform and progress on the terrorist front for the betterment of all. I'd say if anyone qualifies to be called "liberal", it would be you.

Well, actually it was safer, because all the RDx was under IAEA seal and frequently inspected. After the U.N. left Iraq preceding the U.S. invasion, al Qaqaa was not guarded. And the U.S. never came back and guarded it. The entire facility has since been stripped to the ground, and everything inside taken. So I fail to see why you stated that Iraq had something to do with 9/11 when, even by your own admission, they didn't?

When did i say they had NOTHING to do with 9/11?

Quote: Ossama Bin Ladan ordered the murder and had those below him plan details and carry it out.

Im failing to see were in that sentence i said Iraq has nothing to do with it.

Let me get this straight, saying that it was ALL Osama, means something other than all?

Lets check this math...

All of something leaves nothing, therefore if Osama (who ordered it) and group did ALL the planning and ALL the act of carrying it out, that leaves nothing left for Sadam to participate in.

SFEIf it were the "War on terrorism", you could use that justification to attack any Asian country. Why Iraq?

Because these people had more direct contact with those who committed the act. What was it again? $25,000 if you kill yourself for Allah? Quote:The concept of rival clans vying for internal power seems entirely foreign to you. Have you never taken a high school history course?

If any "rival clans" try to fight for the control of Iraq, they will come from the surrounding countries around Iraq. That's not really Civil War. Everything has been pretty damn nice within Iraq and it's citizens. The terrorist from the outside are the ones mucking it up for everyone else.

Quote: Now there's so much RDx around Iraq that anyone can make a roadside bomb of devastating force.

How would you know it's in Iraq? It could be inside Iran, Cuba, or Russia for all you know.

Quote: And Bush took no steps AT ALL to protect it.

Sorta like how Clinton sold U.S. Military intelligence to China to get campaign funds?

Quote:RDx won't go away if we give it time.

Another excuse. If you're so worried about some crappy explosives, care to tell how you would like to take care of it?

Quote:Please. That Newsweek story has been circulating for a year and a half in the Middle East. Their running of that story in no way caused a riot.

gbullAre you incinuating that you could have come up with a plan to have surveillance over every inch of the Iraqi border before we even got there?

Before we even got there?

What do you mean by that? When, exactly, did we "get there?" Is it when the first bombs were dropped?

Seriously, if you could give me an accurate estimate of when U.S. military activity of any sort began in Iraq (in other words, "[when we]...got there"), then you must have inside information.

If, that is, by "there," you are referring to Iraq, as a whole. Obviously, I assumed so.

Anyway, I was unaware, but I suppose pre-war reconnaissance was but a thing of my imagination. Honestly now, I think you are underestimating U.S. intelligence. If Saddam decided to start a WMD convoy of ANY sort, trust me, people wouldn't be arguing today about whether or not the war was justified, if you catch my drift.

Besides, come on! Keeping an eye on the Iraqi border? It's not like we're trying to do something outrageous like trying to spell out, say, the IBM logo, with Xenon atoms, right...?

Considering the incredible number of innocent civilians killed by U.S. bombs and ground forces in Iraq, it seems as if they were better off with Saddam. All in the name of Freedom, though.

bigjoe14If any "rival clans" try to fight for the control of Iraq, they will come from the surrounding countries around Iraq. That's not really Civil War. Everything has been pretty damn nice within Iraq and it's citizens. The terrorist from the outside are the ones mucking it up for everyone else.

Why would they come from outside the country again? All the Iraqi militants you see in the streets know someone who was killed by U.S. weapons. That's why there mad. Not for some dumbass obtuse reason like "they hate our freedoms".

bigjoe14How would you know it's in Iraq? It could be inside Iran, Cuba, or Russia for all you know.

Because Iraqi militant groups probably won't be exporting 350 tons of the highest grade explosive they can possible get their hands on anytime soon.

bigjoe14Sorta like how Clinton sold U.S. Military intelligence to China to get campaign funds?

Or rather, didn't return a campaign check from a mildly shady source.

bigjoe14Another excuse. If you're so worried about some crappy explosives, care to tell how you would like to take care of it?

The only answer to this problem is not let 350 tons of RDx out into a country going through a civil war like Iraq. And if it does get out, don't let those who made the mistake have a chance to make it again. That's usually how things like this work.

bigjoe14Bullshit, You know that story caused all that violence. You're just trying to defend your liberal spin machine. Who cares if it's been running for a year? No... This story has been everywhere EXCEPT U.S. presses for over a year now. You just know nothing, so I can understand you not knowing that.

By the way, turns out Newsweek was wrong about the source, but right about the story.

By the way, if you saw what Arabs read in the Middle East, this Newsweek story is the least of their concerns. At one point, al Jazeera seriously reported a story during the first Gulf War about how Allah had sent giant spider warriors out of the desert to drive away the infidel U.S. forces. A bunch of people fell for that one. The Bush administration is just after censorship here.

jballThe U.S. Intelligence may be the best in the world, but that doesn't mean that they can't be one step behind. This is one reason why we haven't gotten Osama yet.

That and we undercut our military offensive in Afghanistan when we diverted much of our armed service's might to a phony war in Iraq.

http://www.cpa-iraq.org/pressreleases/20040224\_mass\_graves.html

The Coalition Provisional Authority"We've already discovered just so far the remains of 400,000 people in mass graves,"

Also, http://www.blackfive.net/main/2005/05/new\_mass\_graves.html says 182,000 kurds are still unaccounted for

The first number of people found in mass graves(400,000) was a count in January 2004, since then we've found more.

So, are they still worse off with us then saddam?

SFE, take a step back and realize that not everything about the war is bad. The war was born out of illegality. And that's pretty much it. If want to get philosophical about it, there is no such thing as a war that isn't a crime no matter how justified anyone claims it to be.

The important thing now is to look at the country of Iraq and compare the situations of then with the situations of now. You're only 2 years into the campaign, and compared to say... WWII, you're going pretty slow, but the country is systematically being liberated (NOT annexed for oil) and will likely spark off a healthy distant future for Iraq.

And as for those who scream oil or not oil-- consider what will happen when Iraq becomes a stable nation. It is HIGHLY probable that crude oil contracts will be formed with just about all 1st world nations. Take a wild guess how a great deal of the war is going to be paid for. But that does not mean the war is for oil. It would be utterly dependant on the state of the Iraqi people at that time. If people are pumping oil for the west while Iraq might, say, in the future have a stalemate battle with Iran on the border, then the argument might be made. But as it stands, the oil is a commodity that is of interest when the country is stable.

Wouldn't fight and give my life for bush...

Let's just show some quotes:

Quote:"Our enemies are innovative and resourceful, and so are we. They never stop thinking about new ways to harm our country and our people, and neither do we."

"If we don't succeed, we run the risk of failure."

"We're going to have the best educated American people in the world."

"For NASA, space is still a high priority."

"It isn't pollution that's harming the environment. It's the impurities in our air and water that are doing it."

"It's time for the human race to enter the solar system."

"The vast majority of our imports come from outside the country."

"Too many good docs are getting out of the business. Too many OB/GYN's aren't able to practice their love with women all across the country."

"One word sums up probably the responsibility of any Governor, and that one word is 'to be prepared.'"

"I have made good judgments in the past. I have made good judgments in the future."

"The future will be better tomorrow."

"I stand by all the misstatements that I've made."

"We have a firm commitment to NATO, we are a part of NATO. We have a firm commitment to Europe. We are a part of Europe."

"Public speaking is very easy."

"A low voter turnout is an indication of fewer people going to the polls."

"We are ready for any unforeseen event that may or may not occur." -

"Quite frankly, teachers are the only profession that teach our children."

"I just want you to know that, when we talk about war, we're really talking about peace."

"There is a baby boomer generation getting ready to retire. I'm pretty aware of that. I am one. "

" We need to apply 21st century information technology to the health care field. We need to have our medical records put on the IT. "

" My six years as governor of Texas have been invaluable to me as I carry out my duties as the presidency. "

" This notion that the United States is getting ready to attack Iran is simply ridiculous. And having said that, all options are on the table."

Now the best of:

Quote:

I've been to war. I've raised twins. If I had a choice, I'd rather go to war.

I am mindful not only of preserving executive powers for myself, but for predecessors as well.

You teach a child to read and he or her will be able to pass a literacy test.

No, I know all the war rhetoric, but it's all aimed at achieving peace.

My mom often used to say, "The trouble with W" -- although she didn't put that to words.

In 1994, there were 67 schools in Texas that were rated "exemplary" according to our own tests.

I know what I believe. I will continue to articulate what I believe and what I believe -- I believe what I believe is right.

Africa is a nation that suffers from incredible disease.

I understand small business growth. I was one.

Families is where our nation finds hope, where wings take dream.

At this Thursday, ticket counters and airplanes will fly outta Ronald Reagan Airport.

Laura and I will thank them from the bottom of my heart.

We're in for a long struggle, and I think Texans understand that. And so do Americans.

Sometimes when I sleep at night I think of "Hop on Pop".

I promise you I will listen to what has been said here, even though I wasn't here.

And one of the things we've got to make sure that we do is anything.

We're making the right decisions to bring the solution to an end.

I don't understand how the Nasa quote is suspect at all. It's the National AERONAUTICS and Space Association. They have been doing a lot of research into ramjets and solar aircraft. They have not done as much in regards to space lately.

For the FDA, Food is still a priority. It's identical to that. What do you hear the FDA always talking about now a days? Drugs. ED cures and Blood Pressure medicine and weight loss medicine. They still care about the food aspect, they aren't going to let it go to shit. Neither will Nasa forget where space is.

The first picture was most likely a photo-opportunity where someone handed him the binoculars and said "hold these up", then the pic was snapped before he could do anything about the lens caps. The second picture is a proven and obviously photoshop job.

The first picture doesn't really matter. I'm sure all of us have picked up a camera, binoculars, any lensed object, and have forgotten to first take off the cover. Heck, I know I've done it once. It has nothing to do with intelligence, it's simply something that people tend to forget about from time to time.

Irak had no money because of US Blocus. They were only able to exchange oil for food. The didn't have massive destruction weapons. Only fucking scuds... They are miles away from US.

So let me explain something: Your uncle died to help USA gaining control of OIL reserves of Irak and also because Bush wanted to finish the dad's work...

The truth? Your were safe in USA. And if USA didn't go to Irak, you will still be as safe as before.

If american people want security then they should protect airport first. Going to the desert of africa won't change anything. Terrorists are all over the world.

If we were really just in there to get the oil then our gas prices wouldn't be at all-time highs at the moment. Don't even try to justify the Oil for Food scandal.

The fact of the matter is, we took the war to them instead of having to fight it on our land.

Wait, let me get your logic.

Saddamn gases the Kurds.

Kurds are pissed at Saddam.

We get rid of Saddam.

Kurds are pissed at us because we got rid of Saddam?

Wrong. The ones fighting our troops are called insurgents.

in·sur·gent (n-sûrjnt)

adj.

1. Rising in revolt against established authority, especially a government.

2. Rebellng against the leadership of a political party.

They oppose the new Iraqi government, which is actually going to try Saddam in court for crimes against humanity. Now, why would the ones who we being killed by Saddam suddenly want to be ruled by him again?

As for your explanation about the oil prices: Grow the fuck up. There isn't a big conspiracy to keep the oil prices high, then suddenly lower them from the gas we got in Iraq. Plus, it has been three years since we toppled Saddam. If we went in for oil, why haven't there been any news stories about oil investors going to Iraq? Surely they are big targets for the insurgents.

If you are going to make an argument, back it up with actual evidence. Because all you are posting here is a shit-faced opinion that nobody believes.

Just to add on to what U927 has stated, the insurgents who are attacking the Americans were the ones who WANT Saddam to be in power. I highly doubt Saddam would be killing those who would support him.

Saddam, to restate, killed everyone who opposed him, and those whom he simply wanted to see dead. When he was removed from power, certain people did not like that and proceeded to attack the military forces who removed him from power, including remnants of the Iraqi military who are still loyal to Saddam. Ie, people who Saddam was not killing.

Edit: Now that I think about it, why is it not surprizing that someone who thinks Saddam is a good guy, also likes to look at someone's rear end?

Gee Renardin. I don't seem to see this forum being a FRENCH Forum. So why WOULD I speak French here? I'm nere positive its an ENGLISH forum. Also, I don't have a French Spell Checker. You have an English Spell Checker.

Who's to say he's a bad person? Try the 4 million Kurds he gassed in the span of one day. Try the families of those tortured and killed in his special "interrogation" rooms.

Bush would fix the votes? Saddam would KILL anyone who voted for the opposing party, after sending them to the interrogation room. (JBall, care to provide the link of what they did in those rooms?)

Go ahead and praise Saddam. You will certainly be the only person in these forums who does.

I hate Saddam as much as you, but the most people he has ever killed in a single gas attack was 10k, not 4 million.

Thanks for the correction.

To have a strong democracy on a country, there is only one solution : it must be the result of the acts of the people of this country. And you all know it's true. (and don't bring me the argument about allies fighting nazis, it was different as it was a world war.)

This IS what the Iraqis want. They showed up in masses when the first elections were held, even through terrorists were threatening their lives if they dared to vote. We did not build Iraq's government in our image, just as the Afghanis did. They were assisted by us to create a government system that would work for them. You're not hearing that they have a Constitution the same as ours, the checks and balances and all. They are building their own government based on Democracy.

I think what he meant to say was this: When we got our independence we did it without anyones help (Yes, France doesn't count.) So therefore, Iraq should fight for their independence eventually without help, because it's none of our business and we don't get anything out of it.

Wrong. The ones fighting our troops are called insurgents.

adj.

1. Rising in revolt against established authority, especially a government.

2. Rebellious against the leadership of a political party.

They oppose the new Iraqi government, which is actually going to try Saddam in court for crimes against humanity. Now, why would the ones who we being killed by Saddam suddenly want to be ruled by him again?

As for your explanation about the oil prices: Grow the fuck up. There isn't a big conspiracy to keep the oil prices high, then suddenly lower them from the gas we got in Iraq. Plus, it has been three years since we toppled Saddam. If we went in for oil, why haven't there been any news stories about oil investors going to Iraq? Surely they are big targets for the insurgents.

If you are going to make an argument, back it up with actual evidence. Because all you are posting here is a shit-faced opinion that nobody believes.

Why can't the Iraqis fight for their own freedom now? saddam gone.

The battle of Saratoga, while a decisive victory does not guarantee the American victory, as an infinite number of variables would spell victory or defeat for either side when you factor out an otherwise substantial variable into the equation. Only in your hypothetical world is it valid. But in that world, anything is possible.

To answer pothead's question, YES, the Iraqis ARE fighting alongside us. You probably don't pay attention, but you'll hear "an Iraqi fighter did this", "an Iraqi fighter did that".

<http://www.cnn.com/2005/WORLD/meast/06/12/iraq.main/index.html> -- Describes something Iraqi police found

Further quotes from the article:

Insurgents attacked a minibus carrying Iraqi construction workers Saturday, killing 10 people and wounding three. Gunmen riding in two cars opened fire on the vehicle as it traveled between Latifiya and Yusufiya in Babil province, south of Baghdad. See, they're helping to rebuild!

A suicide bomber dressed as a police commando blew himself up Saturday in a group of Iraqi police Wolf Brigade commandos who had gathered for roll call, Iraqi police said. The blast killed three police commandos and wounded 17 others, police said. Oh look, they have Commandos

I'm really not sure what you're trying to establish with this thread. First you don't want to lay down your life for your country because of a President who made a moral decision that you seem to share and/or agree with that was also necessary, but are not willing to help see it through yourself, to go further to insult the people of the nation who are supposedly too stupid to fight for themselves.

I never said that you said anything. I said you seem to give off that impression, and you've just gone and agreed to that with that semi-coherent gumble of words.

The question as to "why Iraq" doesn't really hold much water, seeing how you have to start somewhere no matter how you want to go about dealing with malevolent dictators. If it were Iran, there is a likelihood that you would say "why Iran", and so on.

As for the question of giving up my life for another? Jesus said that there is no greater love than to give up your life for another. I tend to think under the WWJD mentality as much as I can, so I think that is a distinct possibility.

LOL,I'm saying why are the U.S.A. troops the only ones over there. I know we got more nations in the world that believe the Iraqis should be free.

And as for the Iraqis , I realize they to damn stupid to fight for themself, only thing they good at is blowing themselves up.

We're not the only ones over there fighting idiot. Britain, Canada (Yes even Canada has troops over there) Spain was helping, then liberals like yourself voted communist into power after being attacked by the terrorist and they have since removed troops. Only goes to show how spineless you liberals really are.

*I realize that they are too damn stupid to fight for themselves

Even I don't type sentences that bad, you belligerent dumbass. Your supposed to be a liberal, "Oh man peace we're all equal lets play hug hug kiss kiss with the enemy mannn its all in looove" fuck you hippie, you said it yourself all the terrorist want to do is blow themselves up and kill THEY'RE OWN PEOPLE. Oh but wait its just iraqies who cares

If you're not going to pay attention then you can't sit here and try to have an opinion. You have proven most effectively that you were basing your hateful opinion without sufficient knowledge of what you're talking about.

I Don't watch all that war shit,or news .Life is great you know.Get out and get one.

I have a job, up until 2 years ago I was an amateur skateboarder sponsored by a local board shop that has since went out of business. I've got a life.

Quote:Its some stuff out here called "pussy", you getting any?

That comes into play here how? I'm pretty known for hurling insults, but at least I try to be a little creative and apply my name calling to the subject. This is just plain stupid.

The same kid who says we shouldn't be in Iraq? You don't care, oh this is too easy.

Cracker? Racist too, ain't you just a lovely Quote:grown ass man Woohoo, you got a rise out of people 5-8 years younger than you. Show your mom so she can print it out and magnet it to the Refrigerator. Anyway your full of shit, I just wanted to insult you again. You express no political preference of your own, you just mirror the preferences of others you hear or see. Your a prime example of what the liberal media can "produce". Talk to SFE, he'll like you, hes a tool too.
