Once you get 5000 credits get a technician or hotwire. On most maps there is some place to hide and snipe where no one will find you. Go there. Stay low, and make sure you have a good view of the enemy base. And snipe away. The object of this is that you can get a lot of kills while containing the enemy in there base. This is great for when you team is losing. Good luck.

aye but if you are playing on the crazy ctf i am thinking of, Those technicians/ hotwires give off like 4000-5000 points if killed.
So better way is get a flying sbh, with hottie/tech gun.

you just buy the characters. the server does the changing for you. It's stupid, just like those tank wreckages. the sad thing is that these servers steal many of the ren players who could be playing in all those empty normal ones, or joining my recon racing games wtf a 5000 credit hottie/tech? what's so special about them?

flying SBH is quite funny to camp on the pp / ref roofs, destroying people's recon bikes, but the obelisk-gun is kinda excessive :/

The 5000 hottie/tech has a gun which can zoom in, kills in one shot and fires faster than a sniper but slower than a pistol.

In one of the CTF Servers i went to, this wasnt possible. There was ALWAYS atleast 2 Havocs, 3 Deadeyes, a Gunner, a Sydney(150) and a Patch.

If against Nod, it was 2 Sakuras, 4 Black Hand Snipers, 2 Heavy Black Hand, a defending Stealth Black Hand and a Chem Warrior. You werent getting away without atleast a few scratches.

Must'a been a really, really old version of Crazy CTF then. C4 is disabled in all the servers I've played on.(Except for the single bit of Timed C4 you get when you start out after a respawn.)

Geezus. On most servers, that damned Sniper Rifle is A. the first thing to go, and B., right next to the damned teleporter. Some people simply do not deserve to live. Or at the very least, interact with others online. Even I fiddle around with the game modes and maps privately before jumping online. Usually. . .

It wasnt the fact that he asked me where it was, it was the fact that i was in the middle of performing a Hide-Snipe, AND HE BLOODY WALKED UP TO ME! This, of course, completely threw my hiding out the window, and i got shot at alot after that. And then a tank rolled up. and then i sniped it off and the driver got mad and left. And then i laughed and went to get more ammo, as i was literally down to one bullet. Then i sniped yet another tank driver who was at his base. Then i died via a Flag stealer a short time afterwards.

Come to think of it, why is it that people feel it necessary to actually walk up to you in games like this, before talking to you? In most server, they can see your name by locking you in their crosshairs. Then they can say whatever they want with a "<Name>, " prefix. Damn morons.

this was about crazy ctf right, i am in the right topic, I hope dear god.

Anyways, I actually like ctf. It's just a great game for the ego. I remember when I first started playing this game, (less then a year ago) I went into the crazy ctf server, and was like, holy crap this sucks. I left. Got more familiar with the game, now I am doing very well at it. there are things to remember.

1. the n00bs will always shoot at the sbh that are on their team. this is bad, but always happens. They see themselves at gdi, but see a sbh, and cannot resist.
2. The people that get the sbh, hover around the laptop, then pick up the tech rifle are idiots, and should be shot. (but aren't since you do not see them) that combo should be unbeatable in the right hands. even a sbh without the laptop (ability to fly) is killer. but the flying just makes it better.
3. I am always near the top in the points (top three) and almost never leave my base (spend 80% of the time in the base). just sit back and shoot at everything that comes my way. when i get to 5000 credits, I get the tech, kick back in the airstrip or barracks and just snipe away. I love it when another tech comes into my base and i pick him off. 50% of the time it's a newbie, or a n00b (doesn't matter I kill them all), and all that money he just saved up to come into the enemy base and kill everyone with one shot kills, gone. great explosion as well.
4. It cannot be taken seriously. When playing with good players will never see who shot you, so there is alot of bs, or where were you. never really any ns, or the like.
5. Do not play this and try to capture the flag. I know this is the object of the game, but c'mon, you get so and so points for taking and getting the flag, but 4000 points for killing a tech, one of the last few games I played, we were gdi, and were over 10000 points behind with less then 1 minute left to go. me and another tech got into sniping positions in the enemy base, just would kill the techs as they came out of buildings. Won the game in seconds. they kept getting techs lol. if they would stay as basic infantry they would have won, if they would have just stayed in the buildings, they would have won.

6. It seems that every game someone is under the map. the only time I earned respect for someone doing this is when he somehow was visible (caught in the wall it looked like) and asked me to kill him (and had not killed anyone while under the map). only could see his gun, but it was respectable, since you sometimes do fall off the map.

7. the best thing is when someone in a vehicle runs over a powerup, it pulls you from the vehicle, but locks you in place, you cannot move, leave or reenter the vehicle, you are like half in half out.

8. If you have read all of this then please accept my apology, I normally do not play ctf, much less crazy ctf, but for some reason being a medium fish in a small pond is nice. angina9 is me, hemroids9 is my best friend, and as all my other friends become good enough, you will see more 9's in the future, if they ever get good enough. I am also researching on setting up a new server, a pure server, no powerups, no extra vehicles with changing properties, etc etc. just a plain jane server, and not using my computer as a server.

No, considering I don't have Unreal Tournament 2004. I have Unreal Tournament(1999/2000), and I've gotta say. . . Even with the computer, Insta-Gib is fun. But the real joy comes from hopping on the Strangelove server. Now that is some screwed-up crap right there, my friend. For a good ten minutes, I was having a ball just ramming into the walls. I think what gets me the most is the sound effect in the mod. Y'know, that "Weeeeeeeeeee-hooooooooo!!" sound.
