Im looking for a good gaming computer that isn't Dell, because I heard they suck, and I have one to prove it. I want one that is cheaper than 2000 dollar dell, but performs alot better. Anyone know a site or something I can order or the type of stores that sell them?

Are you looking for a already built computer or do you mind buying the parts and assembling the computer yourself? You get way more power for you money that way.

If you have the skills and know how to built it yourself, you will be able to get the system of your dreams for less $$$, although the purchasing, waiting, construction and stress can add up when doing it yourself.

The call is yours, also make sure to check out <http://www.falcon-nw.com/>

They offer systems that are always compared to Alienware's.
