Your aren't asking for anything, except for a swift kick. I'm not sure anyone will help, not to mention can help you.

an uninformed cmatt isn't a good one.

he's talking about every new line that comes up on chat that makes the purchase terminal chat log go down to the newest. He wants it to stop doing that. Really really simple to understand.....fucking #$(($(*s on this forum, I swear.

OHHH! I thought he was talking about getting through everything in between the newest line to the one your going to. Cant you fix that in the Options menu? ...No, thats something else. Hell, what i do if someone says something and i dont get it, is just ask them to repeat it.

I'd like to get this fixed too...
On bigger games it's almost impossible to go and have a look at what happened...
Hope this can be fixed

If you don't ask a question, you can't receive an answer.

An ignorant flyingfox...

Well, it's pretty obvious what he meant...don't be a jerk and try to derail the topic.
Someone from BHS, is this doable?

well actually I didnt understand from his first post.

I agree, it can be annoying, but atm there is no way to turn it off. It would be a nice feature for CP2, because sometimes you miss something important but you cant read it because the chat screen jumps to the bottom all the time.

All I get from the post is that there is a "battle" occurs when you try to scroll for missed information.

That's nice to know, but we all knew about it.

A statement about something that occurs is not a question though.

I would like it if that could be changed. There have been many a time that I have tried to read something there but it constantly scrolls to the newest.
