What a random question.

Random question = Random answer

I would grab some Ant repellent and throw it out the window, then get eaten...

Best way to kill ants is with fire... Though that could also burn other things when they're in your pants

I once had a yellow jacket in my pant. I was stung once but I thought it was my imagination. A few moments after that I felt the wings and realized it was headed for my...special area. I smacked the yellow jacket down and immediately took off my pant in a split second.

If that's not funny enough, a friend was on the computer with his back turned. After he turned around he didn't have any idea what I was doing.

Okay, it's not that funny; but hey, it's better than spam
