Would it be possible to make it so you could change your nickname in game without quitting and restarting RG?

Quote:Can you make it to where you dont have to start renegade then close it again to change your nick? I think this would save time...and would probbally be a good update

I'm not positive, but I think something will be included in the next version of RenGaurd that won't require it to restart on a nick change.

Could be logged on based on your woldata.key file. Well it already reads it, why not put it to use.
