MADNESS

Some slight good news though, according to xbox.com the core console and nothing else included is $299. Half of the shocker sticker price of the combo packages now available for pre-order.

N64 is my mistress, i just cant seem getting past not playing Perfect Dark: Zero.

once you have finished the single player).

I won't be spending my money on an XBox360 or the PS3. To me its stupid to try and keep up with all the new gaming systems. I bought a XBox and that will last me a long time.

I would rather spend $600 bucks on a supercharger for my VW Beetle.

Dude, ive never owned a single console in my entire life, not even one of the two Sega Genesis consoles my mom owns. This would be why i want a 360. I wont be getting the PS3, to my knowledge, but im getting a PS2 sooner or later, for all the games ive got. My sister used to have one here until she moved out.

Unlike the 360, the PS3 is fully backwards compatible. So you if you are going to buy a ps2 you might aswell get a ps3. If you have the money that is.

Playstation just doesnt make games for me. I only liked a few Psx games that came out (FF7, Army Men 3d, Etc). My Ps2 is sadly unused, i played and beat FFX and Socom I & II, and FFX-2 just couldnt keep my attention.

So i wont buy a Ps3 or PSP. They seem to focus more on anime style than anything.

Now the Nintendo Revolution will be on my shelf. I will be able to play Perfect Dark N64 online!

I used to love that game to bits. But when I try to play it again, my eyes start to sting and I have to turn it off.

I wish they'd remake it. Those graphics were a terrible shame.

I am not going to get a consol. I had the PS1, I went on to the PS2, then I went on to the XBOX. They are nothing special to me. I will better spend my money on upgrades for my computer and playing computer games. Consols...they will get better in time, but they are just getting closer to computers.

I wholeheartedly agree with that statement. Although... there are some games that are strictly for consoles... Fucking game companies.

Playstation would loose so much money if that were true. Most people cant afford a $600 system.

Also if a new system is coming out, you can make a safe bet it will be around christmas. These companies know that people will buy their product as a gift and at $600 its very impracticle.

God knows my parents wouldnt buy me a $600 gift, and they make that in extra cash every week from renting out our cabin.

Haven't you seen the FF7 "Tech Demo" for PS3? The one where they redid the entire opening video for PS3 graphics? I think it even has updated music, but I'm not sure.

I'd say that's a pretty big hint that they're working on a remake of FF7 for PS3.

They did the same thing to FF8 for the PS2. I wouldnt put to much of your water in that bowl.

I cant think of 1 game that was remade for the Playstation (1/2)

However there is official news that two sequels are coming out.

Shitty ideas at work again. One is FF7 from cait sith's point of view and the other from vincent's.

"Hmm lets see, what are the most hated unused characters in the game? Oh ok lets make some games."

EDIT: Oh and they may be whole new stories, not from their perspectives. Also i believe one is for PSP and one for PS3.
